SIR HENRY THORNTON HERE, SEES VICTORIA AS MORE THAN WESTERN PLAYGROUND

Canadian National President Interested in Industrial Developments on This Island; Conditions Across Canada Healthy, With Summer Travel Now Unusually Heavy, Justifying Doubling of Transcontinental Train Service

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the longest mileage railway system in the world, the Canadian National Railways, arrived in Victoria this morning at the head of a party of railway officials, on his annual tour over the company's lines.

Within a few minutes after Sir Henry had reached the Empress Hotel from the boat, he had his hat on, grabbed his cane and was out of the hotel to see at first hand how things in Victoria looked.

"I am interested in the industrial development of Victoria and Vancouver Island," Sir Henry said. "This city and this island should not be considered simply a playground."

Sir Henry also made plans to make an early visit to the Ogden Point Piers where the cold storage plant and the grain elevator are to be constructed, and to the C.N.R. terminals on the upper harbor.

"I want personally to see all the development around Victoria in which the company is interested," Sir Henry went on.

TRAVEL IS HEAVY

Travel across Canada on the Canadian National is heavy this summer, and has more than warranted the inauguration of the Confederation of the second daily transcontinental train service between Vancouver and Montreal.

"This is the first year we have operated two through transcontinental trains between Vancouver and Montreal," Sir Henry said. "The traffic increase has more than justified our step."

The tourist season this year was slow to start due to cold weather in June throughout the west and northern Canada, but also due to the fact that many persons in Canada did not start to travel until after the Confederation Jubilee celebration around July 1.

"There is a great increase in American travel through Canada. We find that more and more the people of the United States in making a trip to the Pacific Coast are using a Canadian railway one way."

JASPER POPULAR

"Jasper Park has proved especially popular. The Jasper Park Lodge is now booked solid until August 25. Jasper will soon be the greatest attraction on the continent. Improvements and extension of facilities are being carried out."

The Cavell road to the foot of the Glacier, twenty-two miles, has practically been completed. The road to Maligne Lake, thirty miles, is now finished half way. This lake is sixteen miles long and is the largest glacial-fed lake in the Rockies. From one point, a person can see nine glaciers."

"Our survey across Canada shows the country looking good and conditions are quite healthy," Sir Henry said. "Indications are that the grain crops on the prairies will be quite good and better than at first thought."

C.N.R. EARNINGS

"Earnings of the Canadian National this year will not come quite up to the earnings of $46,000,000 last year. This is due to the fact that the revision of some of the railway wage schedules."

U.S. PLANS TO HAVE EIGHTEEN CRUISERS

By 1935 Republic is to Have That Many of 10,000-Ton Class, it is Stated

Washington, Aug. 10.—While no official statement has been made, it is understood here that in proposing a cruiser tonnage of from 250,000 to 300,000 at Geneva, the United States government figures upon a maximum of eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers for this country.

Eight such craft now have been contracted for and the other ten undoubtedly will be authorized by Congress in the near future. The speed with which they are to be built probably was one of the subjects discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary Wilbur at Rapid City, South Dakota, yesterday.

Naval opinion here now is that two of these craft should be laid down each year, spreading their construction over a five-year period. If that plan is followed, the cruiser fleet would not be completed until 1935. Eight 10,000-ton cruisers would total 180,000 tons, which added to the 75,000 tons of the ten light cruisers of the Memphis type now in commission, would give the United States a grand total of 255,000 tons.

A dispatch from Rapid City, S.D., after the conference yesterday said: "President Coolidge is still hopeful of future disarmament, but pending that, he realizes the present programme must be carried through."

"We expect to go ahead with the building and replacement plan of shipbuilding for the navy as developed by the general board for our needs," Secretary Wilbur declared in a formal statement. "There will be no changes in the plan due to the inability to reach an agreement at Geneva."

It was also stated that the President would carry through the aviation programme outlined by his special commission in 1925. The secretary said this would give the navy almost a thousand planes within five years.

GRAIN BY-LAW PASSES COUNCIL

Appointment of Supervising Officials For City Runs Council Into Deadlock

Five Alternatives Suggested By Aldermen in Course of Hour's Discussion

The city of Victoria was formally committed to the elevator agreement with the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Limited, when the City Council last night gave final reading to the by-law ratified by the ratepayers on August 4.

The unanimity on grain affairs fled from the council at that point. The choice of an elevator engineer to review the detailed plans of the projected grain storage house, and a clerk of the works to supervise its construction, split the council into five groups.

Mayor J. C. Pendray, Aldermen H. C. Holmes, J. L. Mara and Alderman P. R. Brown favored the appointment of E. D. Casseday to review the plans and supervise the work. Alderman John Harvey favored the appointment of an expert and also a clerk of works. Alderman W. Marchant wanted the City Engineer and a clerk of works. Alderman H. O. Litchfield broke up an hour's deadlock by suggesting that the city ask the B.C. Institute of Engineers for advice as to the appointment of one or both officials, and this secured the support of Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, and finally a majority vote of the council.

The industrial committee, brought in a report favoring the appointment of Mr. Casseday as supervisor of plans and construction. The action taken by the council was to refer the matter again to the industrial committee for its recommendation.

Discussion on the subject was extended. Alderman Holmes brought in the report of the industrial committee, recommending the immediate appointment of Mr. Casseday in the dual position. The Panama Pacific, he said, wanted immediate action. Mr. Casseday was on the ground now and could start at once. His record continued the chairman of the industrial committee, included the construction or supervision of 50,000,000 bushels of grain capacity on the coast, and his recommendations were of the highest. Mr. Casseday's fee would be one and a half per cent. of the ultimate cost of construction, and this was reasonable, he considered.

50,000 DEATHS IN CHINA EARTHQUAKE

Latest Report Gives That Figure as Result of Disturbances of May 23

Peking, Aug. 10.—Fifty thousand dead in the Lanchoo district of Kansu Province as a consequence of the disastrous earthquake of May 23 is the latest Chinese official report, as sent from Lanchoo by Monsignor Theodore Suddenbrock of the Steyl Mission at Liangchow. The clergyman, who sent the first detailed account of the terrible quake in China's "wild Kansu" province, said in a communication dated July 1:

"We are sitting in the midst of misery produced by the great quakes of May 23. Shocks are continuing daily, but without damage, owing to the wholesale destruction of May 23. In the Lanchoo district, 50,000 were killed in that quake, according to Chinese officials. Four thousand homeless, half-starved persons are wandering about the district."

"The Chinese are sliding as much as their resources will permit."

SEES INDUSTRIAL FUTURE FOR VICTORIA AND ISLAND

SIR HENRY THORNTON, President of Canadian National Railways, who arrived here to-day and will speak at the public dinner at the Chamber of Commerce to-night.

Large Audience to Hear Thornton at Meeting To-night

Indications are that the Chamber of Commerce auditorium will be crowded to-night at the meeting to be addressed by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways.

The meeting, which starts at 8.15, is open to the public. Appreciation of the support given by Sir Henry in Victoria's effort to establish itself as a grain terminal will be voiced by local speakers.

The railroad president will talk on the grain industry and the prospective business for the port with the establishment of an elevator. In addition to the main speaker, representatives of the City Council and Chamber of Commerce and prominent transportation men will address the meeting.

WARM DAYS PLEASE PRAIRIE FARMERS

D. C. Coleman, Visiting Vancouver, Says Grain Outlook at Present Most Favorable

Vancouver, Aug. 10.—"The only question about the prairie grain crop this year is whether the farmers will have a phenomenal yield or a good yield only," said D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway in charge of western lines, who reached this city this morning to open the Vancouver exhibition this afternoon.

The weather of the next two weeks would decide the extent of the crop, Mr. Coleman said.

Mr. Coleman denied a rumor that the Canadian Pacific had made arrangements with the Great Northern Railway regarding the lease of Great Northern lines serving British Columbia.

GRAIN RISES RAPIDLY

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Warm weather throughout the prairie region, during the past twenty-four hours was reported by the Government weather bureau here to-day and even higher temperatures are predicted for to-night and to-morrow. The lowest point registered last night was at The Pas, Man., when 38 was touched. Thermometers registered from 45 to 53 at other points.

Grain is ripening rapidly in all three prairie provinces, and harvesting is expected to be fairly general within the next fourteen days.

EAST IS TO SEND MEN TO PRAIRIES

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Officials in touch with the employment situation in Eastern Canada, do not anticipate any difficulty will be encountered in recruiting the army of harvesters which is to be transported to the prairies to help with the crops. Approximately 25,000 men will be needed from Eastern Canada for harvesting and this number, it is stated, should be readily available.

APARTMENT BLOCK SOLD IN BIG DEAL

Californian Transfers His Investment Holdings From South to Victoria

In the largest real estate deal here in months, the three-story brick apartment house, 3000 Broadway Street, was bought by a Californian investor, who is moving to Victoria to make his residence here.

The deal, involving the sale of the Californian's twenty-acre orange grove and the transfer of the investment from California to Victoria, represents a $115,000 transaction. It was put through by J. E. Hammond of R. O. Christy and Company Limited.

The property was owned by Abe Collins, who has lived in the Mansions, acting as resident manager.

The Savoy Mansions were built just before the war. The building is of brick and contains twenty-four suites. It is one of the best finished apartment houses in Victoria.

On behalf of the California purchaser it was announced by the agents that he will continue the policy of the retiring management of ministering to the comfort and convenience of the residents, and that some innovations may be made.

"I have had the opportunity," Mr. Dunning continued, "of going over every engineering fact regarding Port Nelson and Port Churchill with the aid of the best engineering advice obtainable and feel sure the detailed report will carry conviction to all as to the wisdom of the course proposed."

The survey has been made in connection with the completion of the Hudson Bay railway.

WHEAT CROP OF CANADA THIS YEAR IS ESTIMATED NOW AT 357,367,000 BUSHELS

Washington, Aug. 10.—A preliminary estimate of the winter wheat crop of the United States issued by the Department of Agriculture to-day places production on August 1 conditions at 552,367,000 bushels, as against 579,416,000 bushels a month ago and 626,925,000 bushels last year.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE GOES TO ASSIZE COURT

Defence Withholds All Evidence in Tolmie Case; Defendant Makes No Statement

Witnesses For Crown Give Testimony To-day; Bound Over For Trial

With all evidence from the Crown before him, and no plea on behalf of the defendant from Oscar Bass, counsel for the defence, Magistrate George Jay committed William Fraser Tolmie to trial at the assizes on the charge of manslaughter at the conclusion of the morning City Police Court session today.

Tolmie is charged as a result of the death of Miss Jean Coddington, twenty-four-year-old friend of school days, who was a passenger in his automobile July 25 when it crashed into a telephone pole on Rockland Avenue. She died the following day as a result of shock and injuries to her head.

The case, commenced at 10.10 o'clock this morning.

Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, outlined the prosecution's case, and named Leonard Bekmah, the first Crown witness, and expert draftsman, who was not called. The evidence would show, said Mr. Harrison, that the accused was driving a motor vehicle on the early morning of July 25; that on driving up Rockland Avenue "in a more or less northerly direction," the automobile had come to a corner and crashed into a telephone pole with great violence; and that Miss Jean Coddington died as a direct result.

ATTEMPT TO PROVE CARELESSNESS

"The prosecution," said Mr. Harrison, "is going to try to show that the accused was driving carelessly."

The first witness to take the stand was Dr. J. H. Moore. He briefly told of having been called to attend Miss Coddington at the Jubilee Hospital, described her terrible injuries and stated that she had died as a result of shock and injuries to her brain.

AWAKENED BY CRASH

A. C. Burdick was called to testify by the prosecution. He testified that by a crash in the early hours of the morning, on investigating he finally discovered the wrecked automobile and found the accused lying on the road, apparently having been flung out of his car. His feet still resting on the running board.

"I rushed back and telephoned the police," said witness, "and a man arrived on a motorcycle in a very short time."

It was while the officer was working to revive Tolmie, said witness, that he heard heavy breathing from the wrecked car. There he found Miss Coddington. She was in a mutilated state, he said.

PAPERS TRANSLATED FOR POLICE OFFICERS

Chinese Society's Documents Seized in Vancouver Following Deaths in Fight

Vancouver, Aug. 10.—Factions of the Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist Society) here seek to have representatives present when the police have translations made of all documents seized in the society's rooms here following the killing of three Chinese in a gun fight Monday night.

After a brief scanning of the papers, the police had no objection to making this morning other than it would be known whether the documents would throw any light on the shooting. Considerable difficulty is being experienced in securing competent translators.

"An inquest on the deaths of the three victims of Monday night's shooting will be opened Friday afternoon."

RAINS BRING RIVER FLOODS IN ARKANSAS

Crop Loss Will be Light; Earlier Floods Left Farmers But Little

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 10.—Out of the mud and the mud and water less than a month after being submerged for three months by three successive floods, part of southern Arkansas is threatened with a fourth deluge by the end of this week.

Heavy rains Monday and Monday night sent the turbulent streams toward flood heights again to-day and through the broken links in the chain of levees a new inundation was spreading over Decha and Chicot counties.

The area, already having been made virtually barren by the previous high waters, the crop loss will be slight and the relief problems will not be great. In these two southernmost Arkansas counties are concentrated all of the 25,000 persons still being cared for by relief agencies.

PEACE RIVER HARVEST STARTS

Peace River, Alta., Aug. 10.—The first harvesting of the season is reported in the Peace River country. Two farmers of Judah Hill district started cutting oats last Friday. Another farmer in the same district began cutting wheat to-day. Harvesting will be general on the north side of the Peace River in about two weeks.

RIOT INSURANCE WRITTEN AT BOSTON

Boston, Aug. 10.—It is estimated that approximately $100,000 worth of riot insurance has been written in the past twenty-four hours covering property in this city and its suburbs. Local insurance firms say this coverage is the direct result of fears entertained by property owners because of the recent bomb explosions in New York and other cities and the threat of a general strike by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

TWO AIRMEN LOST LIVES IN CRASH ON CALIFORNIA SHORE

G. Covell and R. W. Waggener Were Preparing For California-Honolulu Flight

Were on Way to Oakland to Start in Transpacific Air Race Friday

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 10.—Lieut. George Covell and Lieut. R. S. Waggener, of the U. S. naval air forces, who left here today in an airplane they had entered in the Dole flight to Honolulu, were killed when the plane crashed on Point Loma, near here. They were bound to Oakland.

The scene of the crash was at the extreme end of Point Loma, a lizard-like, barren promontory rising 400 feet above and projecting several miles out into the sea and forming the landlocked bay of San Diego.

BODIES RECOVERED

Two hours after the crash an orderly, who had been sent out from the United States naval cooling station at Lapaya returned and reported the bodies of both Covell and Waggener had been recovered.

From the position of the plane it was believed it struck the west bank of Point Loma, as the airmen were endeavoring to gain altitude.

The body of Covell was found in the cockpit of the plane and was charred beyond recognition. Identification being made from a wallet that was found in a pocket of the coat.

The body of Waggener was later recovered from the wreckage and was also badly burned. Waggener is believed to have endeavored to jump clear of the plane as it fell, but was caught in the wreckage.

PLANE BURNED

The plane was destroyed less than fifteen minutes after the airmen had left here for the Oakland airport, where they intended to take off Friday on the flight to Honolulu. The plane burst into flames after it struck Point Loma. Word of the crash was sent to the North Island Naval Air Station and within a short time a rescue party was on the way to the scene. A marine detachment was also hurried to the scene.

Flames from the plane set fire to surrounding brush and a call was sent into the fire company at Ocean Beach. The deaths of Covell and Waggener and the loss of their plane reduce the number of contestants in the North America-Honolulu race to twelve.

EARTH SHOCKS RECORDED HERE

Severe Disturbance This Morning Believed to Have Centred Near Japan

Two earthquakes were recorded on the instruments of the Dominion Heights Observatory during the last twenty-four hours.

The first, a tremor of moderate intensity, commenced at 4.45 last night and continued for two and a half hours. The distance is computed at 3,600 miles.

The second, which was of a severe intensity, commenced at 3.50 a.m. to-day, the record continuing for four hours. The distance of the centre from Victoria is estimated at about 5,600 miles, the origin probably being off the south of Japan or in the vicinity of the Formosa Islands.

RECORDED AT TORONTO

Toronto, Aug. 10.—One of the heaviest earthquakes ever recorded on the seismograph of the Dominion Observatory was registered last night, starting at 20.42.22 o'clock. The maximum movement was at 20.58 and the shocks lasted for three hours.

The distance to the centre of the disturbance was estimated at only 2,500 miles, officials stated. The quake perhaps occurred in Central America or Lower California, they believe.

RECORDED AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—A severe earthquake was recorded at the Dominion Observatory here yesterday. The preliminary tremor arrived at 11.25 minutes, 32 seconds, eastern standard time. The distance of the epicentre was 2,595 miles. The time of the origin was 8 hours 35 minutes 21 seconds, eastern standard time. The record continued for three hours.

ONTARIO FARMERS FORM GRAIN POOL

First Deliveries Made by Members; Organization Work Carried Out

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—J. O. Coley, accountant of the Manitoba Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited has returned here from Toronto, where he assisted in the organization of the Ontario Grain Pool. Mr. Daley's work was the formation of a grain-accounting system for the new body.

During his stay in Toronto the membership in the newly-formed pool jumped from 7,500 to approximately 9,000, with new contracts coming in every day. The farmers of Ontario expressed enthusiasm at the formation of their pool, and there was every indication the organization would have a sound and steady growth, Mr. Daley said.

"Only certain sections of the Province have as yet been organized by the pool, but there was a strong demand from outside areas for pool representation also," he said.

The first deliveries of pool grain by members were made recently, and the crop movement should be well under way in the next ten days.

"Everything points to a bumper pool year in the Eastern provinces," Mr. Daley declared. "The pool is organized on a five-year contract basis for the handling of wheat, barley and oats."

PEACE RIVER HARVEST STARTS

Peace River, Alta., Aug. 10.—The first harvesting of the season is reported in the Peace River country. Two farmers of Judah Hill district started cutting oats last Friday. Another farmer in the same district began cutting wheat to-day. Harvesting will be general on the north side of the Peace River in about two weeks.

VICTORIA MAN REPORTED LOST IN MOUNTAINS

No Word of F. H. Slark and Swiss Guide Scaling Redoubt Peak

F. H. Slark, Victoria photographer, who with Fred Routa, Swiss guide of Jasper, is reported lost following an attempt to climb Redoubt Peak, left Victoria early in June on his annual trip to Jasper National Park, where he had the concessions from the Canadian National Railway to take photographs and sell curios and novelties. According to information obtained in the city to-day Mr. Slark was stationed at Mount Edith Cavell, which is only a few miles from Jasper.

Mr. Slark has been making this trip for several years.

In Victoria he is the proprietor of the souvenir shop situated on Government Street and during his absence the store is managed by his wife.

F. H. Slark, experienced Alpine climber and photographer of Victoria, and Fred Routa, Swiss guide of Jasper, are believed to have lost their lives in the Tonquin Valley when attempting to climb Redoubt Peak, a section of the Banquet Range in that part of the country. The Tonquin Valley, which is thirty miles from the town of Jasper in a northwesterly direction, is said to be one of the most hazardous portions of any section of the Canadian Rockies for climbers. It was there the Canadian Alpine Club held its camp when the members were climbing in the Tonquin Valley last year.

MESSAGE RECEIVED

The first word of the disappearance of the two men was received here last evening when Frank Moderly, guide for Cyril G. Wates of Edmonton, who is also attempting ascents of peaks in the Tonquin Valley, wrote to the editor of the Vancouver Times.

When Mr. Slark and Routa, who signified their intention of attempting the ascent of Redoubt Peak from a camp below Drawbridge Pass, Mr. Slark asked me to pick up his tent and bring them into Jasper on our return. He also made an appointment with Frank Moderly, our guide, to meet him on Friday, August 5, at Amethyst Lake.

FOUR GERMAN HATE EX-KAISER AS WELL AS 'REDS'

Angus Campbell Returns From Interesting Trip to Berlin, London and Paris

"One frequently hears on this side of the Atlantic a discussion as to who won the war, but the Germans know who lost the war, and they are only too ready to admit it."

This was one of the interesting impressions gained by Angus Campbell, the well-known ready-to-wear merchant, while in Germany recently during his European tour. Mr. Campbell returned yesterday from a buying trip to New York, Paris and London, and while on the Continent he availed himself of the opportunity to visit to Berlin.

GERMAN FIRMS HARD HIT
The depreciation of the mark hit German business very hard, so hard that Mr. Campbell found on inquiry that of the many firms with which he dealt in pre-war days, not one was in existence to-day. Their principal were working for others.

A one-time prominent business man, now employed by a rival of former days, told the visitor that large sums of money owing to him for goods exported to Canada, the United States and other Allied countries before the war had been paid by his creditors on the outbreak of war to the British Government, in accordance with war-time procedure. The British Government had paid the money to the German Government, which had retained the British gold and paid the firms concerned with German marks. With the disappearance of the marks, these big export firms had been forced out of business, the only ones to survive being those who had invested their marks in real property.

But with German workmen working for fourteen hours a day, and the world market gradually reopening to German trade, conditions were beginning to improve, and business men in Berlin were confident that trade would be stabilized in the next few years, he found. Practically all the big German houses have established their agents in London, and trade is being resumed with Britain on a large scale.

HATE KAISER AND 'RED'
Another interesting impression forced upon Mr. Campbell was the general feeling of bitterness towards the ex-Kaiser, who was being banished to the island of Heligoland, and the feeling just as strong against the Communists. Many men with whom he talked were strongly of the opinion that the "Reds" would never dominate Germany, but that another monarchy, not the Hohenzollern, would eventually be restored.

A wonderful spirit of optimism was the keynote in Great Britain. Although the Old Country was feeling the effects of the strike of last year, everyone was confident that next year trade would be better than ever, Mr. Campbell found.

As to fashions, while the style books prophesied longer skirts, in the streets, at the races, in the stores and salons in France and England, skirts were just as short as ever. Robbed hair, too, seems to have come for a permanent stay. Mr. Campbell told a Times representative on inquiry, returning to Canada on the liner Empress of Australia. Mr. Campbell was a fellow-passenger of the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier and Mr. Baldwin.

TRAVELED WITH PRINCES
The first thing on boarding the boat everyone was asking, "I wonder if we shall see the Prince," according to Mr. Campbell. He was not disappointed. The Prince of Wales and Prince George appeared and strolled around the deck, mingling with the other passengers, and the Royal couple quickly became acquainted with the quick-witted visitor. It is evident that they wished life on board to go ahead as usual.

As an instance of the democratic attitude of the two Princes, Mr. Campbell cited the incident when the Prince of Wales and his brother went to the ship's bathing pool for a swim. Several other passengers were disporting themselves in the pool and, as the Royal passengers approached, they made to get out. "No, no, don't you get out," said the Prince of Wales. "We shall be with you in a minute." And they were. Needless to say, this attitude, which was preserved through the entire voyage, increased the popularity of the Royal travelers a thousand-fold.

Mr. Campbell returns to Canada more convinced than ever that this Dominion is one of the most prosperous countries in the world to-day, and one of the most pleasant to live in.

VIOLENT DEATHS IN EASTERN CANADA

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Drownings took a toll of lives in Eastern Canada yesterday.

George Bruce, forty, of Kenmore, N.Y., was seized with cramps while bathing at a summer resort near Port Colborne, Ont., and disappeared before aid could reach him.

Sixteen-year-old Arthur Ruben slipped when boarding a dredge along side the quay at Riviere du Loup, Que., and fell into the water to his death.

At St. Antoine-sur-Richelieu, Que., Alfred Corbell was drowned when he toppled from the yacht in which he was riding.

The body of Joseph Maxwell, seventy-four, of Leominster, Mass., was found near a creek close to St. Dunley, Que., where he had been visiting. It is thought he fell into the water and after regaining shore died from sunstroke.

Death from a fracture of the skull claimed Robert Gracie, forty-six, of Sydney, who fell off an ore pier to a wharf last week.

Donald Sitter, aged four, was killed near his home in Moss township, Ont., when struck by a motor car.

WORLD WATCHES LAST MOVES IN VANZETTI CASE

Charlestown, Mass., an explosion of dynamite wrecked the heart of Fitch, Okla., demolishing two homes, damaging scores of other buildings and injuring several persons. Authorities suspect the belief that radicals were responsible for the blast.

In Chicago, tear gas was used by a police and one shot was fired before a parade of radicals toward the Loop district was halted.

POLICE ON ALERT
Police departments were held on emergency duty throughout the day in dozens of cities, following frustrated demonstrations last night and announcements that new efforts would be made to hold such meetings, up to the final hour.

Protest strikes called in leading cities yesterday failed to come up to the point of numbers of workers who were expected by leaders to leave their employment. A Rochester, N.Y., how- ever, 10,000 clothing workers left their jobs, while in New York City leaders gave unchecked estimates of 400,000 being on strike.

IN OTHER COUNTRIES
From foreign capitals continued to come reports of similar activities designed to influence Massachusetts or federal intervention in behalf of the two condemned men. A bomb in a railway station near Buenos Aires, no extreme developments were recorded, however, the demonstrations, against the usual of meetings of protest, and of delegations waiting upon those in authority.

PROTESTS IN MONTREAL
Montreal, Aug. 10.—English, French, Russian, Italian, Ukrainian and Yiddish were the languages of the evening speeches delivered here last evening by members of the Canadian Labor Defence League in protest against the approaching execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts. All the speakers said the condemned men were innocent and were martyrs to the cause of communism and anarchism.

APPEAL TO BORAH

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 10.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, appealed to as champion of the United States Foreign Relations Committee last night, declared himself unable to appear personally before President Coolidge at Rapid City, S.D., to ask the President "to use his good offices with Governor Fuller" to avert the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

CONDEMNED MEN DENOUNCED

Binghamton, N.Y., Aug. 10.—Out of 150 delegates to the state convention of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, only two voted against the adoption of a resolution here yesterday denouncing Vanzetti and Sacco.

The resolution stated that the brotherhood was a truly American institution of trade unionists and as an order stood for law and order and the constitution, that Vanzetti and Sacco were avowed anarchists, and that their case should not be involved in radical methods.

CROWD DISPERSED

Amsterdam, Aug. 10.—A number of youths attempted to stage a demonstration in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti on the occasion of the visit of a party of United States journalists to the Colonial Institute here yesterday afternoon. The youths were dispersed by the police.

RIOT IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Led by a sixteen-year-old girl, a mob numbering 4,000 men and women alternately roared the Third International, battle song of the world radicals, and shouted "Mob the police," marched toward the Loop district of this city early to-day. It was dispersed only after a clash with police resisters who resorted to tear bombs and revolver shots.

Sixty-seven men and four women, including the girl leader, Aurora d'Amico, pretty bobbed-haired high school girl, were arrested. Several persons were reported injured as the mob broke and fled before the stubborn police resistance.

PROTEST MEETING HELD

The mob, forming after a protest meeting at the Ashland Auditorium, was moving toward the City Hall and Federal Building, urged on by the girl who cried: "On comrades, mob the police; strike, strike; Sacco and Vanzetti must not die."

Automobiles in the street were smashed and windows were broken as the crowd surged toward the Loop.

RESOLUTION PASSED

The meeting at the Auditorium had passed quietly enough, the 3,000 who attended passing a resolution of protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions and then moving out in orderly fashion to the street. There they congregated, being joined by others with a few leaders calling for a protest parade into the Loop. The girl was among them and at once took command.

"I'm an anarchist," she cried. "My father also was an anarchist. Follow me."

The street was soon filled for three blocks with men and women, massed from curb to curb and moving toward the Loop.

As the mob surged forward it picked up recruits.

ACTS OF VIOLENCE

The first violence came when those in front seized an automobile, slashed its tires, broke its windows and swept on, leaving the driver terror-stricken. Next a street car was halted and the trolley pulled from the wire, while men and women crowded aboard shouting "Strike, strike," terrorizing the passengers. Another car was halted and the same scene repeated.

By the time the parade had headed for the downtown section, police reserves were speeding to meet the marchers and as the procession swung toward the intersection it was met with tear bombs and the use of batons in the hands of the reserves.

The police charged the crowd, using clubs and tear gas bombs. There was one volley of shots, but it was not reported whether anyone was to avoid firing unless necessary.

CROWD FLED

The collapse of the demonstration was even more dramatic than its inception. Breaking before the police, many moving toward them, members of the crowd sought safety in flight. Those in front found their retreat blocked by the forward movement of the thousands behind.

Several rioters were trampled in the wild scramble to escape. Windows were shattered, broken down cars and motor cars parked at the curb were damaged. A check, however, indicated that no one had been seriously injured.

OPPOSITION FOR CHURCHILL

London, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press Cable).—St. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, probably will be opposed by an independent conservative candidate in the Epping division of Essex in the next general election. The National Sporting League, as a protest against the imposition of the tax on betting, has threatened to bring out a candidate against Mr. Churchill, who as Chancellor of the Exchequer is largely held responsible for the tax.

from her shoulders in the wild milling of her followers, stood on the running board of an automobile as the break of the parade car.

"I'm only a kid," she shouted, "but I guess I know what I'm talking about. Let me talk."

Two policemen stopped the automobile and pulled her down. She broke from them and ran nearly two blocks before she was caught. When trapped, she rained blows with her small impotent fists upon the officers and kicked them.

Finally, in a police car, the girl sobbed.

"I'm only a kid," she kept repeating. "Ain't this a free country? I know what this means to my people and I'm ready to go to jail for it."

PLACES GUARDED

As a result of the outbreak the police placed armed guards around various places where it was feared there might be violence. These included the home of Cardinal Mundelein and the adjoining chancery offices, headquarters of the Roman Catholic Church in Chicago.

The Federal Building, county jail and other public buildings already were under guard.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 10.—A bomb exploded at the Palace of Justice here early this morning. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

The explosion of this bomb came a short time after the explosion of what is believed to have been a peard at the railway station of Velez Field near Buenos Ayres. There were no victims, but a few freight cars were damaged.

Slight damage was done to the Sarsfield Station.

Another supposed bomb was found on the tracks of the Southern Railway. It had not exploded and was taken to the police department for analysis.

VANZETTI APPEALS SENT FROM FRANCE

Mme. Curie, Ex-Ministers and Others Urge Clemency For Two Men in Massachusetts

Paris, Aug. 10.—Manifestations by French crowds against the forthcoming execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts were carried out in several provincial cities yesterday. Paris itself was quiet, although the radical newspapers carried rather flaming headlines.

A number of prominent French citizens, including Mme. Curie, the Marquis Guy de Laessyrie, a grandson of Lafayette, Alfred Dreyfus, the central figure in the famous Dreyfus case, former Minister of Commerce Louis Loucheur and former Minister of Finance Calliaux, signed appeals to President Coolidge and Governor Fuller of Massachusetts.

VIEWERS DIFFER

Benjamin S. Connor, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in France and past commander of the post of the American Legion in France, yesterday sent a message of protest to Howard P. Savage of Chicago, national commander of the American Legion, against a cable sent last night by Senator Alder, chairman of the French committee of the American Legion, who is in Paris arranging for the American Legion convention in September, concerning the attitude of the French people on the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

Mr. Connor's message was as follows: "The papers of police that he had sent you a cable purporting to express the opinion of the population of Paris who, he stated, hoped a high authority would intervene to reprieve Sacco and Vanzetti. I desire to protest against this statement from an official of the American Legion who will be the guests of France in September. I affirm no such feeling prevails among the French people. The alleged emotion is due to persistent propaganda from sources hostile to the French nation, who have no inclination to interfere."

LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE

A number of longshoremen remained away from work at Havre, Bordeaux and in other ports and in some interior towns parades were held. In almost every city where there is a United States consulate, letters and petitions were presented, but with police on guard everywhere there was no violence.

Some cable messages were sent to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the vague hope that he might be able to do something.

DYNAMITE CAPS CAUSE OF DEATHS

Beeton, Ont., Aug. 10.—Dynamite caps which exploded in the barn of Samuel Nevils, near here on June 27, instantly killing his son, Billy, fatally injuring his three-year-old daughter, Martha, who died to-day, and seriously injuring another child, were placed in the barn by Daniel Forryth, who was killed in a hand-to-hand struggle in Alex Hodge's farm shack, according to information received by Ontario provincial police from one of the seven men they have arrested in the district within the last few days. According to the officers' information, the dynamite caps were to have been used in sawfelling operations in Beeton.

Mrs. Wm. Campbell, a graduate nurse of Morden, Man., reports a very interesting experience she had recently with a distressing case of eczema. The patient was a lady who had suffered for years both mentally and physically because of the way her face was disfigured and by the itching, burning sensations of the skin. She had become discouraged because doctors considered her case incurable.

Mrs. Campbell had known of similar cases and by patient persistent treatment was able to obtain complete relief and restore the natural beauty of the skin.

Mrs. Campbell writes: "A patient under my care was so severely afflicted with eczema on her face that the doctors considered it incurable and could do nothing for it. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and never found anything like it for the first application stopped the itching. By continuing the use of the Ointment, the eczema was entirely removed and the complexion greatly improved. No one would ever know that my patient had previously been so disfigured by this annoying and torturing ailment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the recognized standard treatment for eczema. It should never be confused with ordinary salves for it is a medicinal ointment of proven merit and effectiveness. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

HEALTH IN THE SCHOOLS

ONE OF THE IMPORTANT STATEMENTS made at yesterday's session of the World Federation of Education Associations in Toronto was that made by Miss Charlotte Whitton, formerly Private Secretary to Hon. Thomas Low, and now Canadian representative on the Child Welfare branch of the League of Nations. She pointed out that while there were at the present time a million and a half Canadian children in the publicly-controlled elementary schools, there were only fifty medical inspectors who spent their full time in the school life of Canada. Miss Whitton also informed her audience that there were only five hundred school nurses doing school inspection and other school work as compared with sixty-eight thousand school teachers. Her observations implied that she considered the school medical and nursing force to be inadequate to the country's needs, suggesting, as one means of assistance, the training of parents in the rules of health. To her mind this was necessary because the "day of the synthetic baby or beehive organization of society" has not yet arrived.

The point made by Miss Whitton obviously is a vital one. Adequate instruction in health matters should be considered just as important a part of the school curriculum as many of the subjects which impair the health of the young man or young woman often owe their origin to seemingly unimportant mental or physical disorders which begin to manifest themselves in school days. Some of these manifestations very easily may pass unnoticed even under the most careful scrutiny; but with a more comprehensive parental knowledge of health matters, combined with adequate school inspection and supervision, the risk of disease developing would be considerably reduced. After all, health is the important thing; be he ever so bright mentally, the pupil who is handicapped by physical disabilities is handicapped indeed. The better the youth of the country is trained in such matters, the better for the country.

MR. GUTHRIE'S DILEMMA

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE SAYS THE CONSERVATIVE Party of Canada will have to blaze a new trail and look after the people in the West. But he refuses the charge that the Party in the past has concentrated on the protection of large interests.

All this is very interesting. Coming from the present leader of the Party, it almost suggests that, as a contemporary puts it, despite years of association with the front bench leaders of Conservatism, Mr. Guthrie has not succeeded in entirely shedding the Liberal point of view. But what would those interests in certain sections of Central Canada say about a policy which would recognize and provide for the satisfaction of the just claims of the West? Some indication of their course already appears in their determination to influence any new trail blazing which Mr. Guthrie seems to consider necessary. The earlier suggestion that either Premier Ferguson take the leadership, or be given the authority to nominate a successor to the present leader of the Party, was not strenuously objected to by these interests; but the price of their acquiescence appeared to be the privilege of constructing a new platform.

Mr. Guthrie is not specific. He says his Party has not kept in touch with the masses. It would be interesting to know how he would propose to remedy that defect with a Conservative policy. A higher tariff would neither suit the West nor produce enthusiasm among the country's wage earners. A lower tariff never would suit those large interests which the Party's present leader says the Conservatives have not protected. In other words, and Mr. Guthrie's announcement bears it out, the Conservative Party of Canada never will be able to formulate a real national policy as long as its councils are dominated by special pleaders. They will not countenance the blazing of any new trail unless it be one which suits them.

THE RISING TIDE OF LIBERALISM

CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION IS BEING devoted in the British press, in Conservative as well as Liberal journals, to what is being described as the undoubted revival of British Liberalism all over the country. Particular interest is being manifested in the Party's land policy, the work of elucidation seemingly bearing excellent fruit. It is being contended by many observers that the proposal not only promises well and surely in itself, but that the business-like method of its inception, and the spirit and energy with which it is being laid before the classes whom it most closely concerns ought to be conclusive evidence of the fitness of the Liberal Party to be entrusted with the task of giving effect to this policy and to other measures for the relief of the nation from what it argues are the untoward conditions accumulating under the present Government. They say there is a growing conviction that the Liberal Party, with its definite programme and energetic land campaign, is the real hope of the people.

The change of public feeling in this respect is commanding general attention. "People are now besieging you," notes a frequent open-air speaker, "to tell you that they are Liberals. Six months ago such people were too often conspicuous by their absence." In a Staffordshire mining village a campaigner arriving to speak in the open air found a crowd of two hundred waiting for him, and received an uninterrupted hearing while he explained the Liberal proposals for nearly an hour to an audience that quickly grew to five hundred. In a Warwickshire town a crowd at a Liberal meeting that began eighty strong rapidly grew to five hundred; and at this stage had to be limited as it was impeding the traffic. Indeed, in all the mining areas party leaders say the interest in the Liberal policy for coal is strikingly shown, and the sympathy with which it is received grows daily. In the Forest of Dean, the miners in an area notorious as a centre of Communism, stood for nearly two hours in pouring rain to listen to a Liberal campaign speaker. Many of them slipped off to their cottages, pulled on overcoats, and then came back to the meeting.

The fear of victimization by landlord or large farmer owner, whether justified or not, still is there. But a rather uncommon instance comes from a mining village in the West Country, where at the end of a political meeting the Liberal speaker was unable to secure questions. The reason was given him afterwards in private. "The pits here are only working one or two days a week," explained the miners, "and there are hundreds of men in the neighborhood who have done no work for the past fourteen months. If we are seen asking questions that are hostile to the owners, the manager will know all about it in the morning, and there are plenty waiting for our jobs."

These fears, Liberal speakers are pointing out, are evidently losing their justification in respect of the land policy. Farmers under stress of unmistakably bad times for many of them are shaking themselves free from old party ties, and realizing that the very existence of their great industry more and more depends upon the kind of legislation to which they believe it is to be subjected in the near future. Hence an ever-extending disposition to look impartially at the Liberal proposals, to examine them as by practical men seeking practical and effective remedies for very practical grievances. Upon this new interest in the Party's policy the Liberals are building their hopes for the future.

THINKING IN TERMS OF CANADA

DO WE AS CANADIANS THINK OFTEN enough as Canadians, along Canadian lines, about our country, its achievements and its opportunities?

In an address at Kelowna the other day Sir George Foster asked this question and urged an audience composed of that city's Board of Trade and City Council to "think properly" of themselves as Canadians, "avoid any inferiority complex, and thank God every night for the pioneers and the splendid heritage they left us."

We do not get enough of these reminders of our duty, reminders to do what we ought to consider a privilege to do. Too seldom do we stop to appreciate the advantages we enjoy in Canada. We take our standard of living, than which there is none higher in the world, as a matter of course. The fact that Canadian progress during the last sixty years has been the theme for eulogistic comment in every quarter of the globe should stir our pride.

Perhaps if more of our own people would adopt the slogan of "See Canada First" the remnants of any "inferiority complex" which now may exist soon would disappear.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

HOW IT HAPPENED
From The Toronto Globe

In what The Mail and Empire describes as "one of the greatest political addresses" ever given in the Town Hall, Orono, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, leader of the Conservative party in the House of Commons, declared that his party at the last federal election faced the electors optimistically, and added: "We do not know just what happened even yet, but we do know that the Conservative party suffered incalculable loss."

If that is the best elucidation of the people's verdict at the polls which can be presented by the temporary leader of the Tory party in what is heralded as "one of the greatest political addresses" ever given, then the condition disclosed is not only a sad one for the party of which Mr. Guthrie is the present head, but an even sadder one for the country. For the Tory chief, in the course of this "great political address" to throw up his hands and weakly confess that he "doesn't know just what happened" is a mournful confession of weakness and of inability to comprehend the judgment of the country.

One of the main factors in securing the return of the Liberal party to power was the attitude of the Conservative party itself, as seen in the unseemly opportunity presented itself. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and his followers had vigorously and justifiably denounced the Liberal party in connection with the administration of the Customs Department and for importations which had been carried on largely for the purpose of maintaining the King Government in office; but immediately the chance to seize office came within their reach they applied themselves to it with unseemly haste, and in a way which disappointed all but the least scrupulous among their followers. The public realized at a glance that the spokesmen of the Conservative party had not been sincere in their protestations concerning those whom they had been so vociferously and so pretentiously condemning; and that what they were really seeking was office at any cost and by any means. The methods of the Conservative leaders and of the Board of Strategy gave the public a new target on which to set its mark of displeasure.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER

Sixty Years of Progress

No. 71
THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE OF CANADA

Through Confederation new burdens were laid upon Canada. Up to 1870 British regulars stationed in different parts of British North America served as centres for the education of militia officers. In 1870 and 1871 the regulars, with the exception of militia regiments at the naval base of Halifax and Esquimaux, were removed and the Dominion lost its source of military education. The Canadian Permanent Force came into being in 1871 and training schools were established in connection with it. These were wholly inadequate, and there was no provision for the training of officers for higher command, as a result the militia rapidly deteriorated. The conduct of the militia was subjected to severe criticism and British officers with the force in Canada urged the need of higher military training. The question was taken up by the press and later was the subject of warm debate in the House of Commons, and in 1876 the Government, of which the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was leader, passed an Act of Parliament establishing a military college. According to this Act the institution was established:

JOYS FROM GEOGRAPHY

TEMPLE OF KUKULCAN, in Yucatan, is the work of a Mayan civilization that existed in the 5th and 6th centuries. The temple is situated on a majestic pyramid that rises 100 feet above the ground. The illustrations and art relics left by these aboriginals give proof of their genius in mathematics, astronomy and other of the abstract sciences. Perhaps the only contemporaries that equaled them were the Incas.

"For the purpose of imparting a complete education in all branches of military tactics, fortifications, engineering, and general knowledge in subjects connected with, and necessary for, a thorough knowledge in the military profession for qualifying officers for command and staff appointments." The college opened its doors on June 1, 1876, with eighteen Gentlemen Cadets in attendance.

The peninsula, fronting Kingston, Ontario, was selected as the site for the new institution and the first cadets were taken in 1876. The college, which had been used as a military training school during the war of 1812. The first commandant was Major (afterwards Lord) Roberts, R. V. O. Hewitt, who had had wide experience both as a soldier and as an educator. He established the institution on a sound basis, inspired the cadets with a love of their profession and gave the college its motto—"Truth, Duty, Valour."

The Royal Military College received its first test in 1885. At the time of the Riel Rebellion the cadets, as a body, volunteered for active service in the field. Thirty-seven saw service with the expeditionary force, four of whom were wounded. At this time only eighty-eight graduates had left the college, and between twenty and thirty of these were in the Imperial Army.

Between 1878 and 1908 ex-cadets of the Royal Military College were with the Imperials in about forty military expeditions in every hole and corner of Africa and Asia. Seventy-four graduates were on service in South Africa during the Boer War (1898-1901). Twenty-five of these were with the Imperial Army. Seven were killed in action or died of wounds.

The great value of the institution was realized during the World War. Over 900 graduates and ex-cadets served in the war, three were commanders of the original Canadian divisions, one was awarded the Victoria Cross and three others, killed in action, were recommended for it. They paid a heavy toll for Empire, about 260 being killed.

The Royal Military College has been a great bond for Empire. Yearly graduates joined the Imperials, and as military officers, educators, and engineers have made their influence felt in every part of the broadly scattered Empire.

WORSTED MILL PROJECT READY

Business Men to Meet on Proposals of Bradford
Mill Owner

Industrial Committee of City Council Has Prepared Data on Industry

The worsted mill proposals of John Moore, Bradford, England, owner and operator in the woolen trade, will be considered by a public meeting to be called by the city at the request of the industrial committee, the City Council decided last night.

Local business men are to be asked to attend the meeting with a view to discussing how the projected development can be financed.

Mr. Moore is willing to invest some $40,000 in the plant, the installation and operation of which is estimated at $250,000, covering all contingencies. Tarn can be made by a Victoria worsted factory to sell at a considerable profit over the price of importation of the finished article, and figures to show every factor of the situation have been worked out by Mr. Moore, the only man capable of managing the business, as submitted to the city by a valuator, is as follows:

This data has been in the hands of the industrial committee of the City Council, which, in addition to the opportunity for success of the project, plan to assemble the gathering of business men who heard Mr. Moore outline his case, and to discuss previously. Mr. Moore would invest practically the entire proceeds of his English plant in the Victoria unit, and would contract to manage the business for five years in any event. A report on the Bradford holdings of Mr. Moore, as submitted to the city by a valuator, is as follows:

The plant above mentioned is one of the most complete and best arranged, equipped and efficient plants it has been my privilege to report upon.

"It is complete in every respect for the production of fine yarn, in excellent order and condition in every detail, and capable of producing yards of the highest class."

"At all times when I have visited the mill every machine was in operation and every spindle running to full capacity. Good spins were observable all round and a minimum of waste being made there was no surplus or standing machine time."

"The conditions of work were excellent, the workgirls of good type, efficient and contented."

"The mill appears to be kept in a very high state of efficiency and to be effectively controlled and managed."

"The average weekly production of fine counts is 8,200 pounds net yarn per week of forty-eight hours. On thicker hosiery counts this could be increased by one-third, say about 7,200 pounds per week."

"As the plant stands at present it is a very valuable concern, is in full work and in full time operation. Goodwill is not included in the valuation. This I would put at seventeen and one-half per cent on the price stated in the valuation."

"I value the same at the sum of $17,874 14s 9d."

SWIMMING GALA AT SIDNEY DRAWS MANY Passengers on Ferry Enjoy High Diving Exhibition

Sidney, Aug. 10.—Over two hundred residents turned out to witness the third annual swimming gala held by the Sidney Board of Trade at the Ferry wharf on Monday afternoon. The weather was perfect and all those taking part seemed to be in the right spirit, working hard and carrying each item on the programme off perfectly, which added greatly to the success of the afternoon and to the enjoyment of the many spectators. The swimming races and diving events were exceptionally good, especially the races for the young folks, for whose benefit the affair was being held. Many contestants entered and a number of valuable prizes and cups were awarded the winners. The most exciting event of the afternoon was the group polo, several men and boys trying their utmost to reach the end, but only two succeeded.

Miss Audrey Griffin received loud applause during her demonstration of the right and wrong way of starting a race, and giving an exhibition of the different ways of swimming which was much enjoyed. The events were brought to a halt for a short time when the St. City of Bellingham landed at the wharf. During the hull the spectators very much enjoyed a few high diving stunts by three of the crew of the Bellingham.

At the conclusion, the swimmers, accompanied by Miss Audrey Griffin, assembled around a table laden with refreshments and, with a few appropriate words, Colonel G. W. Peck, M.P.P., the local member, presented Miss Griffin with a beautiful bouquet of gladioli and baby's breath, a presentation of English china, cup and saucer, and a French ivory hat brush. Then Colonel Peck proceeded to distribute the prizes which were as follows:

Boys under ten years, ten yards—First prize, Gilman cup, won by Raymond Byers; second prize, gloves, donated by E. G. Prior, won by Albert White.

Girls under ten years, ten yards—First prize, Rankin's cup, won by Emily Thompson; second prize, pencil necklace, donated by "A Friend," won by Marie Crossley.

CALEDONIA AVENUE MAN FINDS RELIEF THROUGH "HUSKY"

Had Suffered for Years
From Constipation—
Stomach and Gas on Stomach Also Afflicted
Him.

Never before have the people of Victoria praised a medicine as hundreds here are now praising "Husky," the herb preparation distributed by the McParlane Drug Company, expressing appreciation for the wonderful results they are receiving from "Husky." Among the many grateful "Husky" users in Victoria is Mr. William Brown of 585 Caledonia Avenue, who tells in the following statement how "Husky" helped him:

"For years I suffered from constipation, which affected my health in general and kept me run down. I was subject to frequent dizziness, spells and almost every day I would have pains in my stomach and bowels from gas which would form from my food. I had suffered so long when I began using 'Husky' that I didn't expect much real help, but when I had been using this preparation several days I was enjoying my food more as the gas and dizziness no longer appeared. As I continued the treatment my bowels began acting normally and regularly and when I had used three bottles of 'Husky' I was feeling better in every way. I am still using it and treatment and from my own experience I recommend this medicine to all who suffer like I did."

THE REVEREND DEED CHERRY, of Atkinson Road, Langford, who has been spending a month's vacation left on Sunday for Winnipeg to resume his clerical duties.

Master Howard Smedley, of Goldstream Road, visited Duncan last week as the guest of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clarke.

J. S. Long is not the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Long as was erroneously stated.

Mrs. J. M. Ritchie, of Goldstream Road, left on Saturday, midnight, on the Princess Mary for a trip to Fort Alice accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Reddall of Vancouver.

The Langford lawn tennis tournament is in full swing. J. Stewart won his match with E. Le Guenne, 6-4.

Miss Jane Soutter won her game against Mrs. Ernest Le Guenne, 6-4.

Miss Wilma Pike, in the second division, was victorious over Miss Winifred Brown, 6-2.

The committee has decided to allow tournament games on Saturdays when necessary, as some players can only play their matches on the holiday.

Miss M. Stewart of Victoria is spending a vacation with her sister, Mrs. George Savory, at their summer camp on the Atkins Road.

receiving from "Husky." Among the many grateful "Husky" users in Victoria is Mr. William Brown of 585 Caledonia Avenue, who tells in the following statement how "Husky" helped him:

"For years I suffered from constipation, which affected my health in general and kept me run down. I was subject to frequent dizziness, spells and almost every day I would have pains in my stomach and bowels from gas which would form from my food. I had suffered so long when I began using 'Husky' that I didn't expect much real help, but when I had been using this preparation several days I was enjoying my food more as the gas and dizziness no longer appeared. As I continued the treatment my bowels began acting normally and regularly and when I had used three bottles of 'Husky' I was feeling better in every way. I am still using it and treatment and from my own experience I recommend this medicine to all who suffer like I did."

RADIO SERVICE ON PACIFIC PLANNED

U.S.-Philippines System to be Established at Cost of $5,000,000

New York, Aug. 10.—The New York Times says the Postal Telegraph Commercial Cables system plans to establish radio service between the United States and the Philippines in connection with a new cable between the Philippines and China. This will be the first time a wire and cable company has undertaken to operate radio service, and will bring the Postal Telegraph in competition with Western Union and the Radio Corporation of America. The reports that the interests headed by Clarence Mackay would acquire their Pacific service with radio comes a week after the Western Union had announced plans to enter the Pacific with a radio cable to cost $10,000,000 or $15,000,000. It was estimated that the radio system which the Postal Telegraph will build will cost less than $5,000,000.

The president said that to organize in such a way as to be able to meet this increase otherwise than out of operating income. But next year this condition will be successfully met. One of the first places Sir Henry set out for was the Victoria office of the Canadian National to meet C. F. Barrie, Victoria manager, and the staff there.

Later he had a meeting with Canadian National Coast officials, many of whom came over from the Mainland last night to confer with him here. Sir Henry had a conference with C. F. MANSLAUGHTER CASE GOES TO ASSIZE COURT

ROAD RATHER BAD

Under cross-examination by Oscar Bass defence counsel, witness said he had heard the car crash, but he knew little to the south of the spot where Tomlin's car crashed. On this occasion the automobile leap the sidewalk and went through a hedge, witness said.

"Does the road slope away from the crown at the place where Tomlin's car crashed?" Mr. Bass asked. "Yes," said witness. "The road is bad there, I should say."

Mr. Bass suggested that there was an appreciable slope towards the sidewalk from the crown of the road, and witness agreed.

"Who was the driver of this other car?" Mr. Harrison asked, referring to the previous accident. Mr. Burdick mentioned.

Witness said his name was Townsend and that he was a resident of Victoria. Witness said that he considered the corner where Tomlin's car crashed a difficult one to turn if one's speed were great.

William Simmonds, photographer, was called to prove certain photographs of the wrecked machine where Jean Codrington was fatally injured.

DESCRIBED WRECK

Constable Albert Wells, the first police officer at the scene of the accident, said he had endeavored to resuscitate Tomlin and of having found Miss Codrington lying among the wreckage. He had subsequently seen her removed from the car and taken to hospital, where she died the next day. It had been necessary to tear the side of the car away to get the injured girl free, said the constable.

"What was the visibility like on this particular corner," asked Mr. Harrison. "It was well lighted in the usual way," witness was positive.

Mr. Harrison: "What was the condition of the road?"

Witness: "Good. It was a fine clear night. There was no rain. The road was dry by daylight, and that he had measured twenty-five or eighty feet of skid marks, leading from the wrecked car's hind wheels."

Mr. Bass wanted to know if witness knew the Rockland Avenue thoroughfare, and witness said he had patrolled it twice or three times a night. Mr. Bass questioned witness as to this light at the corner of the fatal crash.

slope more than another, but witness did not know.

TOOK A DRINK

Archibald Lang was sworn. Since he was an important witness Mr. Harrison, who appeared for him, asked that anything that he might say should not be used against him.

Witness said he had been living at the Hotel Douglas on the night of July 24, when he met Tomlin. He knew the defendant, he said, and had seen him at 11.50 o'clock on the night in question. He had invited Tomlin to a drink, and he had a drink. They had gone together to a room, Lang said.

Two empty gin bottles were produced. Witness recognized one of these bottles.

"Do you remember how many drinks Tomlin had?" asked Mr. Harrison.

"One, at that time," said witness.

After a time, witness went on, a call from Miss Codrington and Dorothy O'Neil was sent up. They were given a message to come up if they wished, and Tomlin said he would take them home shortly. They had been in the restaurant, he said.

"How long were you and Mr. Tomlin in the room before the girls came?" Mr. Harrison asked.

"Oh, it's rather hard to say, maybe three-quarters of an hour, or an hour, even. Maybe less," witness replied.

Witness said he did not know whether the girls had a drink that evening or not, because he had been out of the room a few minutes. After a time he accompanied Tomlin and the two girls to Miss O'Neil's room. After that when on Rockland Avenue he thought the car was going a little too fast, but said nothing.

"When we were coming to the scene of the accident, the car seemed to take a spur forward, and I called out. I think I said: 'Good God, ease up!'"

"I knew that was a dangerous corner."

"How fast was the car going at the corner?" asked Mr. Harrison.

"About 50 or 55 miles an hour, he said. I took the spur forward," said witness.

Witness told of having been thrown out of the car, of picking himself up, calling for help and rushing to a telephone at a nearby house.

Mr. Bass asked whether there had been any appreciation in the minds of the witnesses as to whether there was anything besides people in the rear of Tomlin's car at the time of the crash. Witness said there was not, to his knowledge.

Mr. Harrison then asked where Lang got the liquor that was in his room and which he and Tomlin drank. Lang said he had bought it from a neighbor, but he had not seen it several days before at the liquor store.

H. C. Lawrence, when sworn, told of having seen a motor car on the morning of July 25. He had subsequently heard a loud crash. He dressed, said witness, and went out to see what had happened. Having met a motorcycle officer, witness said, he drove with him to the scene of the accident.

They found Miss Codrington wedged in among the wreckage, he said, and he described her position there.

ROAD SLOPES

"What is the condition of the road at the corner where the accident occurred," Mr. Bass questioned. And witness said that the road sloped to the right, and that there was much foliage on the grounds of homes near the scene. The car light was good, witness said.

Constable Benjamin Acreman told of having gone to the accident with the police ambulance at about 1.50 a.m., July 25.

"Did you find anything in the car," asked crown counsel.

"Among the wreckage I found two pint bottles, one of said witness. "One was in the gutter under the car and another in the car itself."

"Did you find anything else?" Mr. Harrison asked.

Witness said he had found Tomlin, whom he recognized as the accused, lying, blood-covered, in the middle of the road. The steering wheel lay beside him. Pieces of wood and small pieces of glass lay as far as forty or fifty feet ahead of the car, said witness.

Constable Wells was recalled. "Did you find anything in the car?"

"I found one bottle of beer in the front pocket of the right hand side of the car, unopened," said witness.

MISS OFFICER CALLED

Miss Dorothy Officer, Wellington Avenue, said she had gone out between 9.30 and 9.45 p.m. on the night of July 24 as rest of her evening. She had been to see Miss Codrington's home on Metcalfe Street. After half an hour's conversation they drove into the country to see a man named Christie about a tractor.

"Who saw Mr. Christie?" asked Mr. Harrison.

"Mr. Tomlin went in first," said witness. "and we got cold and went in too."

Mr. Harrison: "Did you have any refreshment there?"

Witness said she had some ginger ale and a drink of whisky and ginger ale. They had subsequently gone to see something to eat at the Hotel Douglas, said witness. Mr. Harrison interrupted her story to ask when witness had first seen the whisky bottle at Christie's place. Witness said she had seen it on the table when she went in.

Witness continued her story. On her way to the ladies' rest-room she saw Mr. Lang. Witness said she and Miss Codrington had gone in to have their supper, but that Tomlin had not. She had left a call for him at the hotel office, and had been told by a bell-boy to go up to Lang's room.

Mr. Harrison: "Did you have anything to drink up there?"

Witness: "Yes, Mr. Lang and Miss Codrington and I."

Mr. Harrison: "Who poured the liquor?"

Witness: "I did." It was gin and ginger ale, witness said.

Witness said she had asked Mr. Tomlin to drive her home as quickly as possible. But he had said he could not drive very fast as there was something wrong with the car.

WAS NOT NERVOUS

Mr. Bass asked whether witness had driven in such a way as to make her nervous.

"Oh, no," witness said. "You did not have any apprehension of danger?" asked counsel.

"Oh, no," said witness. Counsel asked if at any time in the evening there had been any atmosphere of drunkenness. Witness said Mr. Tomlin was perfectly sober, although Mr. Lang "might have had something to drink."

Miss Officer told Magistrate Jay she had seen any beer in Tomlin's car. She had arrived home at 1.15 a.m. Mildred McMillan, waitress at the Douglas Cafe, said two young ladies and a taxi man, whom she recognized as the defendant, came into the restaurant. The girls ordered a meal, said witness, ate it and finally went away. She did not see them again, she said.

Mr. Bass asked no questions.

Robert Brown, 1164 Queen's Avenue, hotel clerk, told of the meeting of Lang and two ladies, whom he did not recognize.

He did not see them leave the restaurant during or after their meal, he said.

George Craig, Douglas Hotel employee, saw the defendant on the night of July 24, or shortly after midnight. He had seen him in conversation with Mr. Lang. He took them up to Mr. Lang's room on the third floor, he said. Witness first saw the two girls, who were with Mr. Tomlin, when one of them came and asked him where Mr. Tomlin was, and to get him to come down from Mr. Lang's room. When he called Mr. Lang's room, he was told to bring the girls up. He did so, he said.

Fifteen or twenty minutes later he brought them down from Mr. Lang's room, the whole party, and saw them go away.

John Freer, tobacconist, who lives at the Douglas Hotel, said he saw Tomlin outside the hotel at about 12.30 o'clock, accompanied by Mr. Lang, Miss Codrington and Miss Officer. He saw them drive away.

Later he followed the patrol when it passed, and came to the scene of the accident.

It was at the conclusion of the evidence of this witness that Mr. Harrison asked the jury to retire.

WANTS JURY TRIAL

"I do not know whether Your Honor has decided that there is a case to meet, but in justice to my client and to the public, I think he should take a jury trial."

"Oh, I think there is a case to meet," said Mr. Harrison.

"We shall reserve all our evidence," said Mr. Bass. "The defendant has nothing to say."

Mr. Bass asserted that he had made arrangements for bail with a Supreme Court judge, but the defendant was forced to remain until the matter was finally settled.

All witnesses were bound over for the assizes, when the Tomlin case will go before the court again.

Local Cadets Leave For Ottawa Meeting To Try Their Skill

For First Time in History of B.C. Rifle-shooting Young Shots go East

Cadets Now Important Factor in Shooting; Local Riflemen Do Well at Toronto

For the first time in the history of rifle shooting in this Province a team of cadets has been sent to compete in the prize meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association at Ottawa. The team consists of six boys, with Capt. E. Simmonds in charge. The other members of the team are Capt. N. Perry, Lieut. P. Wilkinson, Lieut. Ian Grant, Sgt. L. Wong and Cadet D. Bird, and all belong to the 112th Cadet Battalion of this city.

The six boys in the party are the leading young shots of this city, and they hope to make a good impression at the national shoot. They have always done well in the school shoots, and some of them have participated in the meetings of the B.C. Rifle Association.

CADETS INTERESTED

The cadets are now beginning to take a very active part in rifle competitions on the main ranges of the world. The Hamilton Collegiate School sent a team of cadets to Blaisy this summer and one of their lads finished well up in the King's Prize. The Hamilton boys have been frequent visitors to Ottawa in recent years and have always done very well.

This is the first venture by the local cadets, but they have provided or their transportation and accommodation at Ottawa.

Capt. Simmonds, who is in charge of the team, will not return with the local boys. He will continue on to Cranwell, England, where he will enter the Royal Air Force. Before Simmonds left here he was presented with a sword of honor by the 112th Battalion.

The shooting of the cadets at Ottawa, together with the performance of the regular local riflemen who will be there, will be watched with much interest by Victorians.

Long Branch, Ont., Aug. 10.—Capt. A. W. Hunt, of the P.O.L.L. London, Ont., led the scorers in the first stage of the Dominion Rifle Association match, which consists of seven rounds at the 300 and 600-yard ranges and was the chief match at the Ontario Rifle Association meet yesterday. He shot with a score of 68 out of a possible 70. So accurate was the shooting that those with less than 62 failed to qualify for the second stage and the twenty who had scores of 62 or more went on to shoot the five last places. Major F. Richardson, Master-Gunner Collingridge, Sgt. W. H. Burton, Sgt. Reg. Sargent, Major M. Wood and P. B. Shroff, all of Victoria, qualified.

In the Duke of Cornwall and York match, Sgt. Major R. Kiddle, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, Toronto, and Capt. R. D. St. John, of the Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, each turned in scores of 68 out of a possible 70.

Among the leading scorers in the Duke of York and Cornwall match were Sgt. J. S. L. 19th Alberta Dragoons, 66; Sgt. H. W. Burton, C.O.R.A., Esquimaux, B.C., 65; Pte. J. H. Began, British Columbia R.A., 66; 45; C.O.M.S. D. Fyvie, British Columbia R.A., 66, 65.

Hustlers Hold Their Annual Sports and Crown Their Champs

The Hustlers Club of the Victoria City Temple completed their fourth annual sports tournament yesterday.

The winner of the first prize chess with 9 points each. The sports were held at the Willows on July 26 and 29, August 5 and 9, Roy Hedden acted as starter with Bert Hedden and Ralph Snider as judges. Harold Whitefield is the secretary.

The test events were the 100-yard dash, broad jump, shot put, high jump, 200-yard dash, 440 yards and baseball throw for distance. Three points were scored for first place, two points for second and one point for third.

The challenge cups were presented in 1924 by the City Temple to the Hustlers Club for the three best all round athletes in the club. The winners were also presented with medals for their own possession.

Softball

Cameron Woodmen and the Foresters, leading teams in the "C" section of the Victoria and District Softball League, won their games last night, the former defeating the Colonias 8-2, while the latter won from the Gyros by 6-7.

In the first game of the play-off series for the championship of the "B" section the Onwegos and Cameron lumber Company will clash tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock at the Central Park, lower diamond.

DECISION FOR TONY

New York, Aug. 10.—Tony Canoneri, Brooklyn featherweight, won a judges' decision in ten round last night over Eddie Anderson, the Wyoming Wildcat.

Canoneri, who has been matched to meet Red Chapman of Boston for the featherweight championship, next month, held the upper hand in several furious exchanges.

BROADFOOT ELEVEN WILL PLAY MATCH HERE ON LABOR DAY

Lovers of cricket will be glad to hear that a starry Vancouver eleven will play here on the Jubilee Hospital ground on Labor Day, September 8, against a strong team assembled by Capt. Coley.

Brooklyn Break Up Winning Streak Of Chicago's Pet Cubs

Leaders Remain Three Games Ahead Despite Unexpected Reverse by Robins

Cubs Lose Services of Their Star Catcher Harnett; Gehrig Increases Lead

To the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have beaten the Chicago Cubs only twice in fifteen games, goes the distinction of stopping the National League leaders after they had won nine games in a row. The Cubs beat the Robins 2-0 in the first game of yesterday's double-header, but lost the other, 5-4. The Robins lost the services of their inspiring catcher, "Gabby" Harnett, who was spiked in the foot by Gus Felix, Brooklyn outfielder.

The Cubs stayed three full games ahead of Pittsburgh, who beat the New York Giants, 7-6, in a loose game. Errors by Hornsby and Packard aided the Pirates' victory, but it was the ever-reliable Paul Waner who drove home the winning run in the ninth. The Giants' defeat brought the record of McGraw's club on its western trip to seven victories against four defeats.

HOMEER SAVED SHUT-OUT

Lou Gehrig's thirty-eighth homer in the ninth saved the Yankees from their first shut-out of the season. The Philadelphia Athletics greeted the Yankees at Shibe Park by pounding Neuharth and Phipps and took an 8-1 victory. Babe Ruth went hitless, but Gehrig, in addition to his homer, pounded out a two-bagger. Gehrig is now three homers ahead of Ruth. Ty Cobb was active in the downfall of the Yankees. He drove in the first run, slammed out the second and played great ball in center field.

Thurston pitched Washington to a four to two victory over Cleveland. The Boston Red Sox were rained out against Detroit.

No other American League games were scheduled.

Leadley McMaster and Miss Munro Eliminate Good Pair in Mixed Doubles

Vancouver Boy Surprises With His Fine Victory Over Defending Champion

Vancouver, Aug. 10.—Elimination of Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, junior title winner last year, at the hands of Leslie Porter, of Jericho, in the second round of the Junior men's singles, featured yesterday's play in the British Columbia Clay Court Championships at Jericho Tennis Club. The Vancouver lad won an uphill battle, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

In an outstanding contest, Leadley McMaster and Miss Munro defeated Henry Culley, of Santa Barbara, and Miss D. Strauss, of Jericho, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Culley, however, continued his advance through the junior singles, and has now been installed favorite to win the title. He disposed of Don McMaster, 7-2, 6-1. Jack Rhine, of Portland, did not play a junior match but knocked out D. McLaren, of Seattle, 6-0, 6-3 in the open singles.

Prusoff kept Keil in the open singles, 6-1, 6-1, but, playing with McLaren, went down before A. S. Milne, of Vancouver, and Lloyd Nordstrom, of Seattle, in the men's doubles, after four closely fought sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

The clever play of the veteran Milne featured the match.

George Sparling has not yet played a match in the singles, having advanced through the first three rounds on default.

Bev Rhodes was knocked out by Gordon Shields, 6-0, 6-3, and Lloyd Nordstrom, of Seattle, was beaten by W. B. Boucher, 6-0, 6-1.

Cecil McLean and Bill Dowell engaged in a marathon battle in the first set of their match, which ran out in favor of the latter, 13-11. The second set was won by McLean, 6-4.

Muir and Dixon disposed of Vancouver's star Japanese doubles team, Kimura and Kinoshita, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

Dangerous combination Rhine and Culley appear to be a dangerous combination in the doubles. They won their match at Chambers and Cartwright, 6-0, 7-5.

Miss R. Ellis, city ladies' champion, was taken to three sets by Miss Muriel Munro advanced at the expense of Mrs. Joliffe, 6-3, 6-3.

In the ladies' doubles, Mrs. Wolrige and Miss Harper beat Mrs. Woodhouse and Miss Straus, 6-3, 6-1. L. Rennie beat D. Davis, 6-1, 6-3; Davies beat Wilson, 6-1, 6-1; G. Shields beat Rhodes 6-0, 6-3; T. O. Ryall beat J. H. Hawke, 6-2, 7-5; H. W. McLean beat H. Brown, 6-0, 6-4; Rhine beat D. McLaren, 6-0, 6-3; Johnston beat Chanter, 6-0, 6-0; M. Cogrove beat J. Chanter, 6-0, 6-3; L. Rennie beat McVine, 6-0, 6-2; Boucher beat Nordstrom, 6-0, 6-3; L. McMaster beat F. W. George, 6-3, 6-4.

McCarthy didn't have much to enthuse over when he took charge, aside from pretty good pitching and catching. His infield, outside of Adams at second base, was nothing to brag of. He had hardly got settled in his new position when he was called upon to make a decision that undoubtedly had much to do with shaping his career as manager of the Cubs.

McCarthy and his star pitcher, Grover Cleveland Alexander, just couldn't agree on what constituted proper discipline on the part of a veteran player. As a result of the difference of opinion, McCarthy surprised the baseball world by peddling Alexander to the St. Louis Cardinals. It took a manager who had the courage of his convictions to make such a drastic move. That's the kind of a guy McCarthy is.

The shift of Alexander to St. Louis had a beneficial effect in both directions. His fine pitching was the outstanding factor in the winning of the pennant and world championship by the St. Louis Cardinals. As for the Cubs, McCarthy let it be known that he was manager and would brook no insubordination.

McCarthy is a dynamic personality. He has initiative and aggressiveness, with which he combines an excellent inside knowledge of the game. You can see the spirit of McCarthy in the actions of every player in the Cub lineup.

In his first year in the majors with limited material, McCarthy had his club in fourth place at the finish, just seven games behind the pennant-winning Cardinals. The team was never lower than fifth, which can be said of no other team in the race last year. The champion Cardinals at one time were sixth.

GOES WELL ON FIELD This year, by adding a bit of strength here and there and putting over a deal that brought to him Pitcher Carlson, of the Phillies, McCarthy has welded together a fast-stepping, confident club that doesn't look so snappy on paper, but goes well on the field.

In considering the sensational play of the Chicago Cubs, don't overlook the influence of Manager Joe McCarthy.

Tilden Extended To Win One Match While Lacoste Takes Pair

Players Favored as Finalists in Southampton Tournament Survive First Rounds

Southampton, N.Y., Aug. 10.—William T. Tilden and Rene Lacoste, probable finalists in the forty-fourth annual invitation tournament which started here yesterday, reached the third round in straight sets but Tilden was extended to the limit by John Van Ryn of East Orange, N.J., national intermediate doubles champion, in a second round match. Tilden won 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Lacoste eliminated Ralph McVine of San Francisco, who took his place of Lionel Ogden of Los Angeles, when the latter reported with a sore arm by a margin of 7-5, 6-2 and bowled over Edward W. Feilman of New York, in his second test at 6-2, 6-3.

Tilden's first round victim was James Van Allen of Newport, R.I., whom the former champion vanquished at 6-1, 6-1.

George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago, reached the third round by defeating Herbert L. Bowman of New York, 6-3, 6-2.

With the exception of John Doe of Santa Monica, Calif., who required three sets to down Jack B. March Jr. of Buffalo, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, the rest of the favorites passed the first milestones without encountering serious opposition.

Vancouver Boy Surprises With His Fine Victory Over Defending Champion

Vancouver, Aug. 10.—Elimination of Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, junior title winner last year, at the hands of Leslie Porter, of Jericho, in the second round of the Junior men's singles, featured yesterday's play in the British Columbia Clay Court Championships at Jericho Tennis Club. The Vancouver lad won an uphill battle, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

In an outstanding contest, Leadley McMaster and Miss Munro defeated Henry Culley, of Santa Barbara, and Miss D. Strauss, of Jericho, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Culley, however, continued his advance through the junior singles, and has now been installed favorite to win the title. He disposed of Don McMaster, 7-2, 6-1. Jack Rhine, of Portland, did not play a junior match but knocked out D. McLaren, of Seattle, 6-0, 6-3 in the open singles.

CONKLIN IN ROLE OF LADY-KILLER THIS WEEK AT VARIETY

When Kipling wrote: "A rag and a bone and a hank of hair" he might have had Chester Conklin in mind. For Paramount's walrus mustache comedian has become a male vampi Chester's secretary in the new Bebe Daniels picture at the Variety Theatre this week "A Kiss in a Taxi" cannot resist him. She is the pursuer and he the pursued, all through the comedy. Clarence Badger directed. Incidentally the secretary is played by Jocelyn Lee, who is considerable of a "vamp" herself.

IN ADDITION TO FINE
PICTURE AT COLISEUM

Mrs. Wallace Reid, in "The Red Kimono," shown at the Coliseum Theatre this week, comes to the front once more with a picture dealing with one of civilization's most vital problems. It asks the question: What chance has the woman who discards the red kimono? and then proceeds to show the chance is a very small one, treating a daring subject in a delicate manner. Mrs. Reid has produced a film play that is rich in exploitation possibilities. It is a production of the type of "Human Wreckage" and "Broken Laws." Priscilla Beemer is seen in the principal role, and deserves much credit for the appealing characterization she has painted. The supporting cast has been carefully selected, and there is nothing objectionable in any of the sequences, so deftly directed that not even the most prudish can object. The offering is rich in dramatic situations, and has a goodly quota of thrills, and a climax that will send everyone away feeling better for having seen this unusual production. There are also vaudeville acts in connection with the pictures.

CLEVER PARAMOUNT
COMEDY ATTRACTION
AT THE PLAYHOUSE

A typical "Menjou audience" gathered at the Playhouse Theatre last evening to take in the Paramount picture "A Social Celebrity," one of the finest things Menjou has ever done. And for this, Malcolm St. Clair, his director, deserves much credit. The film is just full of those little touches we are learning to expect from him.

In brief, the amusing tale concerns a barber. It doesn't seem possible to connect romance with one of those white-clothed chaps who stand behind a shiny chair, but—when Adolphe Menjou is the person in question, well—that's different. Our hero decides that his small home town offers no opportunities for an ambitious youth, so he comes to New York with a few dollars and a big pair of shears. His idea was, not to clip coupons, but to cut fair ladies' hair.

SCREEN STARS APPEAR IN PERSON ON STAGE OF CAPITOL THEATRE

On the stage at the Capitol Theatre this week two screen stars are appearing in person. They are Snub Pollard and Thomas Daniels, both of these artists will be remembered as having appeared in several screaming comedies that have been shown at the various theatres in Victoria. Snub Pollard, especially will be remembered as having played the foil in the days when Harold Lloyd was making his name with two-reel comedies. The other acts include Kathleen McDonald, a delightful contralto soloist, and Romeo Perry and his Kyrphonians.

Donald Reed, handsome new screen leading man, heads the supporting cast of this picture, which John McCormick produced, and is the sheik with whom Colleen falls in love. Other supporting players are Claude Gillingwater, William Cooley, Kathryn McGuire, Edythe Chapman and Clarence Selwynne.

LAURA LA PLANTE IS JUDGED MOST POPULAR
ACTRESS IN HOLLYWOOD

To be chosen the most popular girl in Hollywood is the attainment of just as important a personal triumph as being the most popular screen star with the general public the world over. Laura La Plante, whose picture "Beware of Widows" is playing at the Dominion Theatre, is an actress whose public following is growing with startling rapidity. She has had Hollywood at her feet for several years.

Each Spring the studio electricians, an organization of the men who furnish the lighting of sets in all the motion picture studios have a ball, and ballot for the choice of a queen. Miss La Plante won over all the other stars as being the most popular with the electricians, a tribute to her charm and democracy.

Her latest starring vehicle, "Beware of Widows" was directed by Wesley Ruggles with a cast including Bryant Washburn, Paulette Goddard, Walter Hiers, Tully Marshall, Catherine Carter, Heinie Conklin and Otto Hoffman.

DAINTY SCREEN STAR HAS FINE STRING OF THOROUGHbred DOGS

Marie Prevost, dainty screen star, has one of the finest strings of canine thoroughbreds in the film industry, her entries having carried off innumerable honors in various dog shows both in California and in New York. When not appearing before the camera the star in "For Wives Only," a Metropolitan picture at the Coliseum Theatre, will have her dog, Miss Prevost may be found in her Beverly Hills home surrounded by her canine pets.

"The Cave Man" is another fine picture on the same bill.

Brentwood

Brentwood, Aug. 10.—Mrs. William Campbell, of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Meyer, Yards Avenue, left today for her home in Edmonton after spending a week here.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig and family of Victoria, who have spent a three weeks' holiday at the beach, left on Tuesday for Vancouver where they will reside in future.

Miss Jean Wilson, who has been the guest of Mrs. N. Broadhurst for some months, left yesterday for Vancouver en route to her home in Prince Rupert.

Mrs. Broadhurst and Miss Ryna Broadhurst of "Totem" left on Tuesday for Vancouver to attend the exhibition for which the "Totem" Rabbits have sent a number of entries.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson and daughter of Victoria are spending a holiday at their cottage at the beach.

Miss Glenna Evans, whose marriage takes place to-day, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower and beach party given by her girl friends on Friday evening at the home of Miss Grace Sluggert. The gifts, presented in a treasure ship, were concealed to the bride-to-be by little Lorna Thomson dressed as a pirate. After the numerous gifts had been duly admired, supper in the form of a wieners roast was very much enjoyed and was followed by music. The guests were: Mrs. R. J. Farrell, Mrs. J. W. Thomson, Mrs. Lorne Thomson, Mrs. Arthur Fitch, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. C. Butler, Mrs. W. Watt, Miss Grace Sluggert, Miss Gladys Tanner, Miss Edith June, Miss Myrtle Bolder, Miss Jean Anderson, Misses Roberta, Madeleine and Shirley Sluggert, Freda and Gladys Durrance, Miss Miles, Miss Glenna Evans, Dorothy Butler, Sylvia Fitch and Lorna Thomson.

Mrs. C. Woodward and her two children, Winona and Darrell, who have been visiting at the home of D. Woodward, have left for Victoria to visit friends before returning to their home in New Westminster.

CLARA BOW IS COOLEST GIRL
IN HOLLYWOOD THESE DAYS

Clara Bow in the fetching costume of grass she wears for her new picture, "Hula"

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 10.—Red-headed Clara Bow is the envy of all Hollywood these mid-summer days, for she is filming a new Hawaiian picture, "Hula," that calls for native garb from the islands of Queen Lil.

The costume has its advantages, according to Miss Bow, but the anklets are a nuisance. These bits of primitive jewelry, heavy bone and shell, should have peddling on the inside, but they don't, she complains, and scratched ankles result.

In Richard Dix's new picture, "Shanghai Bound," movie audiences will have a chance to see the Sacramento River, famed California stream, doubling for the Yangtze-Kiang in China. Dix and the company of fifty actors which made the picture have just returned from three weeks on location in China, the China.

CAUSE OF DISEASE
SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Dr. Arthur Barton Will Talk at
New Thought Temple

Dr. Arthur F. Barton will deliver a popular health lecture this evening at 8 o'clock in the New Thought Temple. The title of the lecture will be "The Cause of All Disease."

"Hurry, hurry, hurry," says Dr. Barton, have placed thousands of people in jeopardy of early death. Rushing here and there as if life depended upon it has resulted in many diseases.

"Many people spend thirty years of their lives under the bed clothes and the remainder under suspicion," he says. "This is generally due to misdirected energy. We should learn to live efficiently here and take no chances on the promised land. We should make haste slowly—use our minds more and our feet less. Hard physical work consumes less energy than continued excitement, impatience, useless chattering, fear of approaching our 'superiors' or worry."

METCHOSIN FARMERS

Goat Show and Fall Garden
Exhibit August 31

Luxton, Aug. 10.—By resolution at the last annual meeting of the Metchosin Farmers' Institute it was decided that the products of the farm gardens in competition this year under the auspices of the institute, should be exhibited. It was therefore decided to hold a specialized fall fair for these exhibits and also a goat show in the interests of goat breeders of the district, and in order that the Hon. W. Nichol Challenge Cup might be competed for again. In addition, through an arrangement with the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute, a section for flowers has been added.

The date of the fair is fixed for Wednesday, August 31, in the Luxton Hall, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. The prize list is in the hands of the printers and will be ready for distribution in a few days. Division "A" in the catalogue is confined to classes for exhibits from the farm gardens in competition and includes early and late potatoes, green and ripe tomatoes, sweet corn, beans, carrots, parsnips, cabbage, peas and a class for the best collection of any six varieties of vegetables.

INDUSTRIAL AREA TO HAVE NEW MAIN

To provide for the need of growing commercial undertakings on the Industrial Reserve, the city will install a twelve-inch water main on Johnson Street, leading to the reserve area, it was decided by the City Council last night, at the request of the water committee. The extension of factory development across the harbor from the city had grown to the point where further pressure was desired to take care of the present and future expansions. It was stated, The work will cost between $12,000 and $15,000, it is anticipated, and is to be undertaken without delay.

Books, Aug. 9.—Mr. Thomas Aiken Murray, who passed away on August 5 at the home of his brother, John Murray, J.P., was of Scotch descent, his family living at Greenock, Scotland. By profession Mr. Murray was an engineering draftsman, and before coming to Canada lived for a number of years in Fiji. He was one of the pioneers coming to Sooke forty years ago. Though eighty-five years of age he was active until recently, when he contracted influenza, the after-effects of which caused his last illness. The near relatives he leaves behind are his brother, Mr. John Murray, well known for his activities in the district during the last forty years, and a sister in England, Miss Murray who, though over eighty, walks several miles daily. The beautiful flowers sent to the funeral testified to the respect in which Mr. Murray was held, the senders being as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Gragnic and

New York, Aug. 10.—Further excitement of time money was the dominating influence in to-day's financial markets. An average recession of 1-1/2 per cent occurred in the principal maturities, bringing accommodations for sixty days down to 4 per cent and for six months to 4-3/8 per cent.

This evidence of the abundance of credit seeking employment, however, was further in the background the recent uneasiness over political developments. It became clear that even though the market was deriving its chief upward impulse from the strength of the money situation, fresh indications that the current ease was likely to be of indefinite duration were followed by a renewal of bullish operations in various standard stocks.

Individual issues like Brooklyn Union Gas, Brooklyn Edison, Timken Roller Bearing, Union Carbide and General Railway Signal showed the most aggressive advances. Pivotal in the market were Allied Chemical, General Electric and General Motors, all of which displayed a confident tone, but their gains were moderate.

Steel Common was held by news that the corporation had reduced its operations to around 60 per cent from seventy-two per cent last week. This curtailment served to offset optimism created by the increase in unfilled orders during July.

California Petroleum was under pressure, breaking to 22-1/8. This loss was due to the reduction in the quarterly dividend to 25c, compared with 30c previously paid.

People responsible for the recent sharp advance in Mullins Body turned their attention to American Bosch Magneto. Interest in American Bosch management said there was nothing in the company's affairs to justify this run-up. Earnings for the first half year were disappointing.

In the first six months of 1927, Goodrich sales were $29,774,000 against $27,600,000 in the first six months of 1926. Expenses were $60,072,000 against $63,656,000 a year ago. In other words, with an increase of $2,000,000 in sales, expenses dropped over $3,500,000.

SNARED

A Story of One Wonderful Week
By MALCOLM DUART

Two big tears coursed down the girl's cheeks.

"Don't cry," he added. "I'll be all right. He filled his lungs, and touched his breast cautiously. 'I thought they'd busted a rib, too,' he said.

Nadine stood up. "Charley," said she, "you shan't talk any more. You're about ready to faint. I've got to get you into bed."

She held up his free hand. "Don't fret," he said. "I just—his utterance was becoming more labored, and the lid he had upon his mouth, the 'Don't say another word,' she commanded, firmly.

For the second time she dashed into the house, and came back a moment later with a sheet and a blanket from her bed.

"I can't carry you, but I can drag you," she said.

She laid the covers upon the hall floor, and assisted him as he struggled backward until he was sitting upon the square of bedclothing.

"Now lie down," she said, "and I'll pull you."

The effort of drawing him back to her room was a severe one, but she persevered, gaging with each hand, the gave to the sheet and blanket. At last he was beside the bed.

Placing her arms around him she helped him to his feet, and she gave a triumphant cry as he toppled backward upon the mattress.

He was panting and his eyes were closed. She drew a chair from the kitchen and sat beside him, bathing his forehead from time to time.

Finally he fell asleep. His injured arm across his breast, and Nadine drew the covers over him. He still wore his shoes and his torn and dirt-streaked suit.

The girl herself was very tired, from her exertions in clearing the yard, and the effort of bringing the youth into the house. She sat for a time, her eyes shut, and her arms hanging limply beside her.

Nadine was young, however, and strong and well. A sharp reminder came from her stomach to tell that she was hungry. "If I had a piece of meat," she thought, "I'd eat it. There was firewood beside the stable, and she brought an armload.

Some bits of chicken remained from the two that had been cooked, and a few spoonfuls of gravy. She made coffee, warmed the chicken, fried a number of strips of bacon—her own appetite was in the way. The meat was ready she slipped into the room where Pierce lay.

His eyes were open. "Hello," he said, vaguely.

"I'm so glad you're awake," she said. "I fixed something for you to eat."

He sat up with an effort, and grimaced as his sore muscles protested at the move. "I'm starved," he said. He made an effort to get out of bed, but he fell back. "Every joint I've got must be twisted backwards," he explained.

"You stay right where you are and I'll feed you," she said.

She arranged his plate and cup and saucer on the seat of a chair, and brought this substitute for an invalid table to his bedside.

His right hand and arm were in fairly good condition, and he took up and drained his coffee cup. Nadine laughed, and refilled it.

"Now I'll bring my coffee and bacon, and we'll eat together," she said.

Sitting beside him she consumed the crisp slices of fat meat from her own plate, helping Pierce when he fumbled. "Wow," he said, at length, leaning back with a sigh of content. She had arranged the pillows so he could sit up in comfort. "You're a nice kid. Say, his eyes, encircled by discolored flesh, were more alive in his face, but they were not longer dull. "You better fasten up the doors to this place! I won't be of much help if that gang comes here."

"Will they come?" Nadine put down her cup.

"Don't know what they'll do," he ret. His grotesquely enlarged lips. "Maybe they've grabbed the Bodeys. Better fix those doors."

The girl ran to perform this mission. Again she dragged the table against the kitchen door, and re-enforced it with chairs. At the front door, she saw her clothing and the two newspapers scattered beside the step. She brought them into the hall.

A loose board lay in the yard. She dragged this into the house, and propped one end of it against the doorknob, the other against the bottom step of the stair.

"I wish Irene hadn't carried away the keys when she left," said she. "I can't lock up this place any more."

"No, I'm sure of it," said Pierce. "The hall was empty when I first looked. I suppose it was after midnight—three men came. They almost touched me, they were so close, but they didn't see me. I couldn't see them well either. It was so dark."

"By and by, I sneaked up and looked through the door. They had left it open. One of them was a big fellow with a red nose and two smaller men."

"Was the tall man without any thumb there?" the girl asked.

"Didn't see him. But these fellows were waiting for somebody. The big man said: 'We won't wait for him much longer.' I couldn't make out who it was. They were all sitting on the floor, waiting some stuff they had brought in paper bags."

"I didn't know what to do, so I went back into the yard. I thought the tall man that Bodey spoke about might come. Then when his face fell—'gone! I fell asleep!'"

The girl clasped her hands. "Go on!"

"They found me, at daylight," he said, "and they just everlastingly beat the stuffing out of me!"

"Is that all?" she asked, as he gave no indication of going forward with the tale.

"Almost all," he said, mournfully. "Maybe nothing would have happened. I tried to run away. You see, I was startled when they woke me up. So they landed on me. I must have done some damage, but they were alive and kicking when I left. They kicked me—told me to get away from there and stay. He sighed. "It took me all this time from then until afternoon to crawl back here. I wanted to warn you and Bodey—that's why I didn't try to get a ride on the highway. So I—"

A thundering knock sounded on the front door, and then another. Nadine jumped up in panic.

"Get something quick!" said Pierce. "We may have to fight! Get a poker—get anything!"

CHAPTER IV

The hammering continued. A man's voice, shouting, came to the ears of the startled young people.

Nadine ran into the kitchen, looked about her, found no other weapon than a chair, and armed with this she returned to the bedroom.

Pierce was crouched with his feet on the floor, pushing with one hand against the head of the bed in an effort to arise.

"My muscles are so stiff," he panted. "I can't unbend."

The noise at the front door ceased, momentarily. Nadine dropped the chair, stole to the forward door of the room, and slipped into the hall.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Grasshopper

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along near the edge of the brook one day looking for a place to hide. The rabbit gentleman was just beginning to think none would happen, when all of a sudden, he heard a voice crying:

"Well, this is the beginning of an adventure if ever there was one, I'm sure!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I only hope it isn't one of the bad chaps," he went on.

But the voice did not seem to be either that of the Wolf, Fox or Bob Cat. It cried again:

"Help! Help! Help!"

Pushing his way through the bushes on the bank of the brook, Mr. Longears ears looked along the water, thinking perhaps Baby Bunt, or one of his little rabbit boys or girls, might have fallen in while paddling in a boat. For a moment Uncle Wiggily could see no one, though the voice kept on shouting. Then the rabbit noticed a swirling of the water in a deep, quiet eddy beneath the edge of the bank. And right away the bunny saw who was in trouble.

Uncle Wiggily slipped on the steep bank.

"Why, it's Mr. Skip, the grasshopper!" cried the rabbit.

"That's who I am," answered the green bug, kicking at hard as he could with his long hind legs. "But unless I get out of here soon I won't be anybody!"

Not stopping to ask how it happened, as he might have done had he been a reporter on a newspaper, Mr. Longears reached a long stick down into the brook so Mr. Skip could catch hold of it.

"Now you're all right," said the bunny gentleman as he began to lift the stick, with Mr. Skip clinging to it out of the water. But as he said that, Uncle Wiggily slipped on the steep bank and down he slid into the water. Not all the way, luckily, but far enough to get his paws wet. But he did not let go his stick and a moment later he had scrambled up the bank with Mr. Skip saved from a watery death.

"Oh, I'm so sorry you slipped in!" sang the green grasshopper.

"That's all right," Uncle Wiggily answered, stamping the water off his paws as best he could. "I am not as wet as you, for you fell all the way in. How did it happen?"

"Oh, I was foolish and thought I could jump across the brook at the widest part instead of going down where it was narrow," answered Mr. Skip. "But never mind about me. I'm all right. You had better hurry home and get on dry shoes or you may catch the sniffles."

"I'll be lucky if I don't get a touch of rheumatism," said the rabbit. "But you are right. I must hop home. Are you feeling better?"

"Oh, I'm as jolly as an ice-cream cone now that I'm out of the water," answered the grasshopper. "My legs are good for jumping, but not for swimming. You did me a great favor, and I hope, some day, to return it."

"Don't speak about it!"

"Oh, you have a cold in your head already! Hurry home!" begged Mr. Skip, and the bunny did so.

He had no sooner reached his bungalow than his rheumatism began to pain him so much he could hardly hobble up the porch. And his wife came out and, seeing nothing how her husband limped, asked:

"Can you hop to the store and get me some sugar? I am just in the middle of baking a cake. I can't leave it and without sugar the cake will spoil."

"I can't walk, led alone hobbling!" murmured Mr. Longears. "I have a gold and de rubediam! Ouch!"

"Oh, dear! I must put you to bed at once!" his wife said. "But what am I going to do about sugar for the cake? Not a child in sight and—"

"Perhaps I can help you," chirped Mr. Skip who, now quite dry, had followed Uncle Wiggily home to see that the bunny safely reached there. "I'll go get your sugar."

"You're kind!" said Mr. Longears. "But you could only carry a grain of sugar at a time; just a crumb or two, and I need a pound! No, I'll let the cake go and put Uncle Wiggily to bed."

"Yes, you do that and leave the sugar to me! I'll get it for you!" promised Mr. Skip. "Uncle Wiggily caught cold and rheumatism by helping me so it is only fair I should help him. Don't worry about the pound of sugar. I'll get it!" Mrs. Longears thought this never could be. But let us wait and see what happens. Meanwhile Mr. Longears was put in a warm bed to get over his cold and rheumatism. And if the baby carriage will take the roller skate for a walk on the cake of ice, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's rheumatism pie.

Just a smile of love anew;
Just a tear in silent falling,
And a yearning still for you.

Inserted by her family.

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE
"The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel"
(Copyright)

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 1927

Again sinister stars rule, according to astrology, which finds the business hours subject to thwarting and disturbing influences.

Women to-day may be stimulated to energy and activity, but they should be careful lest they expend energy in futile fault-finding.

The way is most threatening to domestic peace, for quarrels may be precipitated by means of mistaken efforts or opinions on the part of wives or daughters.

Divorces will multiply, but their great number will bring about serious reforms in social manners and customs, the seers predict.

The summer will be a time when the planetary influences seem to stimulate romantic impulses in women who may use initiative in love affairs.

Because there is to be established a new order of things in domestic relations this period will be marked by strange vagaries in sentiment, it is forecast.

Signs of times that appear discouraging to philosophers are read by the seers as cheering signs they mark the turning point.

Under this way one's financial affairs may turn especially depressing, but it is well to forget them until the configuration changes.

Industry will have reason to rejoice, astrologers forecast, for there is to be great activity in many lines of manufacture.

Children born on this day probably will be lucky in love. They are likely to have talent in mechanical lines and may become inventors.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS AND PAYROLLS IN BUSINESS OF B.C. REVEAL BIG GROWTH

British Columbia wage earners increased in numbers by 5.09 per cent last year, according to figures released in the annual report of the Provincial Labor Department to-day. Statistics laid before Hon. A. M. Manson, Minister of Labor, by J. D. McNeil, Deputy Minister, show that the wage-earning population in 1926 was 100,303 as against 95,441 in 1925.

Further facts to show that the wheels of industry are speeding up are made public in the report. Many lines of business have increased wages, while a few have dropped their rate of pay, it is stated. Firms with payrolls over $100,000 a year numbered 230 last year as against 186 in the previous year.

A detailed analysis of the industrial population shows that Canadians and natives of Britain form 70.92 per cent of all workers, a slight increase over the percentage for 1925, while the percentage of other nationalities remains about the same.

ASIATICS INCREASE
The Asiatic workers in our industries, as enumerated in these returns, increased from a percentage of 11.30 in 1925 to 11.56 in 1926. This increase represents a slight check to a reduction which had been going on since only one interruption, every year since 1918 when 20.37 per cent of our workers were of Asiatic origin. The increase in the number of Asiatics is chiefly made up of Chinese, though Japanese, and particularly females of that country, figure more largely in the returns. The progressive decline in the number of Hindus, which has been going on over a number of years, is again in evidence.

From the countries of continental Europe, there is a slightly reduced percentage, though the actual numbers are in most cases higher than in 1925. From 1924 to 1926, there was an increase in the percentage of continental Europeans from 14.56 to 15.91. Part of this increase was lost in 1925, the percentage going down to 15.62. The principal increases are shown by Scandinavians, Russians, and other Slavs, and Italian, and a slight decrease is shown by Austrians, and in those from "other European countries."

SHOW NATIONALITIES
Dividing our industrial workers into groups as above referred to, the proportions for the last four years are as follows:

Natives of English-speaking Countries...	1925	1926	1925	1926
Natives of Continental Europe...	15.43	14.56	15.91	15.62
Natives of Asiatic Countries...	11.30	11.56	11.30	11.56
From Other Countries, or Nationality not stated...	1.29	1.14	1.34	1.30
	100.00	100.00	100.00	100.00

The fact that the returns for 1926 show 1,356 more Asiatic workers than those for 1925 invites an explanation. More than this amount of increase is accounted for in the food products group alone. In this group the returns show 1,446 more Orientals employed than in 1925, and these again are accounted for chiefly by the fish canneries, with 1,425 Oriental workers as compared with 1,586, an increase of 839. The figures for the two years, however, are not strictly comparable in former years most of the Oriental contractors for the canneries have avoided making returns, but this year the department has insisted upon their being made, and the inclusion of their figures has swelled the number of Oriental employees in this year's totals, whereas those similarly employed in previous years were not counted. In most other groups, the number of Orientals was virtually stationary, or even showed a reduction. Thus, in the contracting group, there were twenty-two Chinese, no Hindus and eight Japanese in 1925. In 1926, there were ninety-three Chinese, thirteen Hindus and fifty-three Japanese. In the lumbering group, there was a slight increase.

The increases and decreases in weekly wages are shown in the following table:

The comparison of wages for the two years, it may be noted, is not affected by any substantial difference as to hours of labor, and the 1926 returns in the lumbering industry nearly all relate to a period before the order under the Minimum Wage Act went into effect. The most marked change in the weekly average of any group is the reduction of $2.53 a week in smelting. While the average for this group still remains as high as $32.90 a week, it seems singular at first sight, that such a reduction in wages should be synchronous with marked expansion of the industry, but the explanation appears to be an arrangement under which wages rise and fall with the fluctuation in the price of metals.

WORKERS INCREASE
The total of adult male wage-earners accounted for, 100,303, compares with a total of 95,441 for 1925, the increase being at the rate of 5.09 per cent. In last year's report the department called attention to the fact that there was a larger number of wage-earners receiving under $18 a week, or less than $3 a day. The 1926 figures, however, tell a very different story. The number of these wage-earners falling from 10,803 to 6,978, or a reduction of 35.13 per cent. Wage-earners receiving from $18 to $30 a week, or from $3 to $4 a day, have grown in number from 51,370 to 58,758, a rise of 14.58 per cent, and those receiving $30 a week or over have increased by 2,900, or 1.9 per cent, to 34,567. It is particularly gratifying to note a considerable reduction in the number of the lowest paid workers. Thus, there were in 1925, 49 male workers receiving under $6 a week, and in 1926, only two. In 1925 there were forty-five receiving from $6 to $7 a week, and in 1926, only three, and other changes have been as follows:

$7 to $7.99 a week, reduced from 37 to 12.
$8 to $8.99 a week, reduced from 158 to 53.
$9 to $9.99 a week, reduced from 139 to 56.
$10 to $10.99 a week, reduced from 297 to 97.
$11 to $11.99 a week, reduced from 382 to 204.
$12 to $12.99 a week, reduced from 412 to 359.
$13 to $13.99 a week, reduced from 1,249 to 359.
These changes appear to have been fairly general, affecting most of the industrial groups. At the other end of the scale, there were 2,445 wage-earners receiving $50 a week or over in 1926, as against 2,067 in 1925.

FLUCTUATIONS SHOWN

For several years past it has been the practice of the department to make a comparison of the wages prevalent in the different years, the average wage of adult males in each industry being worked out on the basis of the classified weekly wage-rates. The method of computation has been the same for each year.

Average industrial wage for all adult male wage-earners, as computed from returns:

1918.....$27.97	1925.....$31.51
1919.....$29.11	1926.....$27.63
1920.....$31.51	1927.....$27.29
1921.....$27.63	1928.....$28.05
1922.....$27.29	1929.....$28.39
1923.....$28.05	1930.....$27.83
1924.....$28.39	1931.....$27.60

The lowering of the weekly average between 1924 and 1925 was explained by the reduction in the working hours of many employees, resulting from the operation of the Hours of Work Act.

PAYROLL INCREASES

The industrial firms in the Province whose annual payroll exceeds $100,000 have again, been numbered. The first year in which such record was compiled was 1921, when there were 118 of these large employers. In 1926, there were 164 and in 1925 there was 200. Then there was a fall in 1924 to 196, this also being the total for 1925. For the year 1926, however, there were 229 firms with a payroll of $100,000 or more. Eleven of these had a payroll of over $1,000,000, three of them being between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, and one over $4,000,000. This list does not include any public authorities, Dominion provincial or municipal, nor does it take account of transportation, railways, wholesale and retail merchants and deep-sea shipping. The lumbering industry, of course, has the highest number of these large firms, 105, compared with eighty-nine in the previous year. The food products group comes next, with twenty-one, and there were fifteen in contracting, thirteen in coast shipping, twelve in coal mining, eleven in metal mining, ten in metal trades, eight in shipbuilding, seven in public utilities, for each in laundries, cleaning and dyeing, printing and publishing, and pulp and paper manufacturing, three each in builders' materials and manufacture of wood (N.E.S.), two each in garment-making, oil refining and smelting, and one each in breweries, explosives and chemicals, house furniture, jewelry manufacture, manufacture of leather and fur goods, paint manufacture and the miscellaneous group.

GRAIN BY-LAW PASSES COUNCIL

Alderman John Harvey said he could not be a party to the report. He favored the appointment of an engineer to view the plans, and a clerk of works to supervise construction. The city had applications from local men. IN DUAL ROLE

Alderman Eugene S. Woodward suggested the appointment of the elevator designers, Metcalfe and Company, in the dual role of designer of the plans and protector of the city's interests. This, he said, was not unusual, but was the case often with architects in large building construction.

"We should look to them (Metcalfe and Company) to protect the interests of the city in the elevator company and designers for the elevator company and advisers to the city, said Mr. Woodward amplifying his remarks. "As city mice, we have the responsibility for any change it requires in the plans," continued Alderman Woodward. "Metcalfe and Company are seeing every detail of the work, we would protect ourselves best by having them advise us in this matter."

Alderman J. L. Mars said the city should employ an independent elevator expert, in view of the fact that the contract was not a competitive one. The plans should be checked by an expert, in view of the fact that the contract was not a competitive one. The plans should be checked by an expert, in view of the fact that the contract was not a competitive one.

A FALSE POSITION

Mayor Fendray said it was important to see that the elevator could be the one promised, and only an independent engineer could insure that. The appointment of one firm to serve two interests, he said, was a poor proposition and a false position to put anyone into in that connection.

"One City Engineer advised, continued his warning, that the city appoint one man to review the plans and supervise the work, so that one set of shoulders would take the responsibility for what the city got eventually. It was the question of the competence of Metcalfe and Company, and that was not called in question."

"The people of the city of Victoria want an elevator, and have a right to get it. They want a fully modern up-to-date elevator that will work, more especially as our responsibilities in the matter extend over a long term of years. We want our own man to see those plans. The expense is between $10,000 and $11,000 at the outside, and the city will be best protected that way," concluded the Mayor.

Alderman Woodward pressed for the appointment of Metcalfe and Company as city's representative. "If we interfere with their plans we assume responsibility for any defects in the structure," he repeated.

Alderman H. C. Litchfield advised against hasty action. He could not favor the report as presented, he said. To his mind there should be two engineers, one to check the plans and the other to check the work of the city engineer and a clerk of works. The city engineer should have the supervision of the work. One engineer should pass on the plans and another act under the city's own staff in watching the progress of the work.

URGES AGAINST HASTE

There were, continued Alderman Litchfield, many qualified men in British Columbia, and the wisest course would be to ask the B.C. Institute of Engineers to recommend the names. This advice could be obtained without any delay, and would result in an opinion that would command the highest respect.

Alderman William Marchant said he would not vote for any outside engineer, as he had seen the folly of that course before, in the School and some other waterworks contracts of the city on past occasions. He would like to see the city engineer and a clerk of work appointed.

The city engineer "could take a month off" and review elevators on the coast to secure any data he needed, supplemented Mr. Marchant. The designers would be paid the fee of $2,000, he said. This was an enormous fee, and he would not consent either to the Woodward plan of having the designers act for the city as well. A clerk of works could be had for from $175 to $200 a month, and there was no need to pay anyone one and a half per cent on the contract.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

Alderman Marchant quoted Alderman Woodward who had said that if the city asked a change in the plans it would have to take the responsibility. Who would take the responsibility if a second engineer acted for the city? he asked. First there would be the disagreement, and then a Royal Commission. How much would the city have left of its money? asked Alderman Marchant.

Alderman P. R. Brown said he regretted missing through illness so much of the elevator discussion. He favored the committee's report as to the appointment of Mr. Casaday. The sum of $10,000 or $11,000 was not large when the city had $500,000 at risk, he said. The people had passed the by-law and wanted the elevator. The committee recommended Mr. Casaday, who was resident in B.C. and he would favor that appointment.

Taking issue with Alderman Woodward, Mayor Fendray recalled that it had been stated during the campaign that all changes made in the plans would have to be agreed upon by the contractors. The Panama Pacific interests, he continued, it had been stated, had agreed to assume the responsibility for any changes the city desired. The city should get the best man it could to review the plans and facilitate an early start on the work.

Alderman Mars said he saw no reason for undue haste. "The Panama Pacific people had taken two years to reach this point and a week's delay will not hurt them. I believe it is important to get the best man we can for the job."

Alderman Litchfield moved the report of the committee be returned for consideration. Alderman Holmes urged action. The Panama Pacific interests, he said, had written to the city asking for quick action. The council could delay the matter if it liked, but alderners would have to "make their peace" with the Panama Pacific company. "The by-law had been carried on the shoulders of a man who had been born in another country, Sir Henry Thornton, and it was idle to raise the point of the nationality of an engineer now, he believed."
